From the first newspaper ever printed to the web sites and 20/20's of today, media has always played an important role in human society. It entertains, frightens, amuses, warns, and, most of all, it informs. Over the last few decades, the American media has evolved to represent the basic rights of all citizens--the right to hear and be heard, the right to freely express opinions, and the right to access all information. With the coming of the new millennium, journalism--yearbooks in particular--acquires yet another role. The main goal is now to make people remember the historically momentous era they have been living in and to guide them into speculating about the future of the new millennium right around the corner.

THE BEGINNING. . .

by Vicki Oliver

What will end for you this year? The conclusion of the school year inevitably brings other endings--your first year at Warren, your best or worst year ever, or maybe even your life at home with the family you've known for eighteen years. One thing is certain no matter who you ask; this year marks the end of the millennium, an event that history has only recorded once before. As the school year, the millennium, and whatever other events made this year special for you come to an end, there is only one thing to do: look back, think of the times you had, and remember. Whether you loved this year or hated it, cherish it, learn from it, and never forget it; let your memories from this year, from all these years, guide you into the future. And never forget to ask yourself the most important question: what will begin for you next year?

. . . OF THE END.

As students wait quarantined in classes, the ventilation shuts off, and the campus closes down, a health department worker confers with staff members about an anthrax threat delivered to Warren on November 11. The threat, consisting of an envelope informing Warren that it had just been exposed to anthrax, was just one in a long line of recent hoaxes affecting many other area schools.

NOSTRADAMUS: A link to the future

by Amanda Anderson

Whether people believed prophets or not the accuracy of Nostradamus in predicting catastrophic events couldn't be ignored.

As the millennium approached many people communicated their thoughts on the apocalypse. Different theories emerged throughout the years, some too fantastic to believe, some so believable they were frightening. This was the case of Nostradamus' millennium prediction.

Michael Nostradamus was a physician and prophet in 16th century France who came from a wealthy Catholic family. One of his age's most educated men, he was conversant in many languages and knowledgeable in the various arts and sciences which flourished in the late Renaissance. It was during this time that Nostradamus began writing his famous quatrains. He wrote roughly 946 four-line poems throughout his life, each stating his theories of the future. He predicted specific wars, famines, earthquakes, plagues, and internal revolutions. He also predicted the life, death and historical details of people such as Hitler, Napoleon and the Pope.

As to how he managed to predict events centuries ahead of time, no one is sure. Nostradamus acknowledged that he was born with an inner "sixth sense"; he also talked about staring at fire or water as a way of focusing his mind.

One of the prophet's most famous predictions was the great double earthquake of Los Angeles, known as "The Big One." One of the quatrains regarding this earthquake read:

Ennosigee, fire from the center of the earth shall make an earthquake of the new city.
Two great rocks shall for a long time war against each other.
After that Arethusa shall color red the New River.

Because Nostradamus often used codes for his predictions, this quatrain isn't impressive to the average person. The first word "ennosigee", Greek for seismic turmoil, is actually the date on which the earthquake was to take place. If you sound out the word "ennosigee" in either French or English you get the spelling of the middle five letters, N-O-S-I-G. Then he used his alphanumeric code to get the numbers, 5-6-19-9-7, or the exact date of May 6th, 1997.

What should be thought of his apocalypse prediction?

In the year 1999 and seven months
The Greek King of Terror will come from the sky,
He will bring back to life the great king of the Mongols.
Before and after Mars [the God of war] reigns Happily.

ANXIOUSLY AWAITED

by Jordan Smith

Many people were fascinated by the chance of the world ending in the near future, and even closer, in the millennium.

The end was involved in every day life through movies and music. For years, people had made movies and songs expressing their views on the apocalypse.

There were many different perspectives on how it "would all end."

- Jonathan Hensleigh, the author of Armageddon, saw the world ending from an asteroid colliding with the earth. That was not only the opinion of Hensleigh but of many others also.
- Stephen King, author of The Stand, believed that the world would end from a deadly flu epidemic. That was one of the more realistic theories on how the world would end.
- The song "Party Like It's 1999" by Prince took a different view on the new millennium and the end of the world. He believed that the end should be celebrated instead of feared.

The same remained true for fashion . Although the attitude and theme of various decades differed, one of the most noticeable changes occured in fashion.

In 1969 "flower children" preached peace, love, and happiness. The guys wore jeans, plaid pants, vests, and T-shirts. The girls wore socks to their knees, flower prints, and flare leg pants. Although that doesn't sound much different form the 1999 style, the guys shorts were, well, short, and girl's skirts were mid-calf length, including cheerleader skirts. In 1979 big collars and leisure suits were in, mostly made of polyester, and afro's were common. The guys, along with leisure suits, wore letter jackets, and khakis were popular. Girls' fashion included straight leg jeans, and they wore their hair long with no bangs. In 1989 things changed a little more severly. The guys and girls wore ripped, stonewashed, and tight-rolled jeans. Letterjackets were still in style, and IOU shirts could be seen on just about everyone. In 1999 almost anything went. Guys wore sweater vests, brand name clothing, cargo pants, and tennis shoes or boots. They generally had faded or ear length haircuts. Girls were into slightly flared or wide leg pants, silver jewelry, and layered haircuts were in style. In 1999 almost all styles were laid-back.

to some "generation x" was out of CONTROL. to some we were looking for attention, we didn't have a grasp on realtiy, and our pants were too big. So maybe we were looking for attention and, yeah, our pants were pretty big. But nobody had a firmer grasp on reality. We took the culture we were taught and made it our OWN.

Jenny Zigler

by Amanda Anderson

With the 90's came a flood of new trends, new ideas, new attitudes, new problems, and new culture.

Music was no exception; it under went dramatic changes. Techno was popular as well as music with digitally made sounds; two popular bands that embraced digital beats were The Chemical Brothers and The Crystal Method. Big Band music was also making its comeback with swing dancing and all. The Brian Setzer Orchestra was one popular band with the 40's sound; they were famous for their song "Jump, Jive, and Wail".

Not only did the music styles change, but people's styles changed as well. As far as clothing went, almost anything was acceptable, and what wasn't was worn anyway. The main goal was to be original, which sometimes involved going over the top for style. Many people also adorned their bodies with tattoos and piercings.

Technology changes every year, and '99 was no different ; however, never was technology so global as the internet. The internet became very popular in the late nineties, with almost everyone having internet access somewhere, whether it was at their home, work, or school.

All in all, teenagers didn't cahnge from year to year; they had worries, joys, questions, and love just like other years but their lifestyles changed and will change for years to come.

Pop Culture

What is your interpretation of "generation x"? What makes us different?

"I think the 'X' names our generation as basically clueless. Aside of all the new technology, we don't know how much longer we'll be here or where we'll end up."

Br Campbell grade 10

"All of the other decades had one major style or defining characteristic. The seventies had flower children and the eighties had disco. We don't conform to any specific group. I think that's why they call us 'X'."

Steve Garvey grade 12

Tattoos & Piercings

Pop Culture:

"When people see mytattoos they always ask: 'Did that hurt?' and when they see my piercings they repeat their questions. I guess that's our nature. My tattoos really didn't hurt but I guess everyone has a different pain tolerance. Mypiercings in my eyebrow and tongue didn't hurt. My tongue did hurt afterwards though and I couldn't eat. But I'm really glad I got it.

Jason Majors grade 12

Anyway, I got my first tattoo on my arm when I turned 17, a friend of mine is training from a professional tattooist so I didn't need identification. About six months later I got one on my chest. On the Fourth of July I had another done, on the other side of my chest. I also have one on my leg. So I have four total and I don't regret any of them. Some people say that I shouldn't get tattoos at such an early age, but I love them all. They have special meaning to me. The tattoo on my left arm is a dagger with a tribal design in the background. The shape of it actually makes a cross. The dagger represents the world and the blood that drips from it represents the pain man goes through. The tribal in the background represents the fire of hell and Satan's scorn. The one on the left side of my chest is a Christian fish; is stands for my love of Jesus Christ. The one on the right side of my chest is of a Hebrew god. It is the god of good times, wisdom and prosperity: all the things I try to live by in life. And finally I have one on my left thigh of a mermaid; it shows my love for the ocean and of women.

My friend Joel Cumbee did each of my tattoos and I'm very happy with them all . Because he is my friend I've only spent around $200 on all of them."

Peggy Fenton grade 12

"Tattoos and piercings don't bother me at all. In fact, I couldn't care less if other people get them. Sometimes I even like tattoos I see on people. I would not, however, get any of my own. I'm not offended by them in any way but I don't think that I would need to get one. I guess there are four major reasons why I wouldn't get one. For starters I have more important things to spend my money on. The cheapest tattoos that you can get professionally are about $30-$40 and that's for something like a ladybug or a small butterfly. For a really nice, good sized tattoos you could be looking at anywhere from $100- thousands of dollars. Needless to say I could use $1000 on something way cooler. Another reason why I wouldn't get a tattoo is because I don't think there is anything cool enough to get permanently tattooed on my body. I have the feeling that I would get something tattooed on me and I would hate it before it even healed. Another reason I wouldn't get one is because I'm way too big of a wuss to have a needle stuck in my arm hundreds of times. Finally, the all important reason I wouldn't get one anytime soon is because my parents would kill me, and, well, I'm not 18 anyway."

Not only teenagers are adopting the pop culture attitude; celebrities are also embracing the craze. Mr. Rogers, Rupaul, Casey Kasem, Elvira, and Madonna have all abandoned the traditional steak for a vegetarian diet.

Brush a cookie sheet with two tablespoons of oil. Lay out nuggets, without touching, and bake for 15 minutes. Flip them and bake another 15 minutes. Eat alone or dipped in barbecue sauce

by Jordan Smith

In the 1990's, many people, young and old, tried the trend of vegetarianism. Although it has been around for centuries it wasn't until recently that it became a trend.

Most of the students and teachers at Warren couldn't imagine life without a juicy Quarter Pounder from McDonald's or a chunk of turkey on Thanksgiving; but some couldn't imagine putting anything of the sort near their mouth.

One type of vegetarian is a dietary vegan. These people eat no red meat, fish, poultry, mollusks, dairy products, or eggs. Some don't even consume honey.

An ovo-lacto vegetarian eats no meat. They do, however, eat eggs and dairy products. When someone eats no meat or dairy products they're considered an ovo vegetarian, because they do eat eggs. Just the opposite, eating dairy but consuming no eggs, is called being a lacto vegetarian.

The most dramatic state of vegetarianism is an ethical vegan. These vegetarians not only refrain from eating meat, but they also refrain from wearing any clothing or using products that came from animals.

There are some individuals who consider themselves vegetarians except they eat fish and chicken. This, however, is not a vegetarian by definition.

Whether vegetarianism is healthy or not is arguable. Most experts agree that with the proper maintenance vegetarianism is quite healthy. As for those people who can't live without a steak, doctors recommend at least limiting your red meat intake and sticking to poultry and fish.

ACTIVITIES: Soccer 3 years, student council 3 years, National Honor Society 3 years, German National Honor Society 1 year, newspaper staff 3 years, indoor/ outdoor soccer 14 years.

FUTURE PLANS: Damien hopes to attend Stanford University or Duke University and he is undecided in his major.

"My parents are my role models, I know that's kinda corny ,but they really do influence me and I look up to them a lot."

"I follow the leadership code as best as I can. Being a leader involves leading by example. If you screw up, then students who look up to you , also can break the code. Leaders should be held at even higher standard than anyone in the school because more or less they run the school."

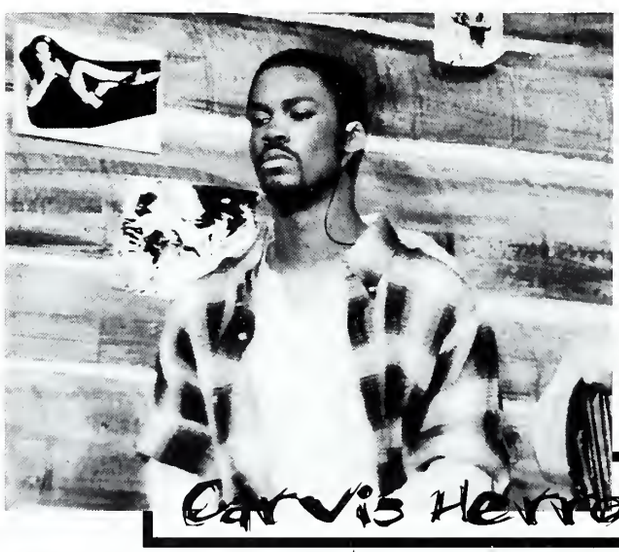
ACTIVITIES: Cross country 4 years, track and field 4 years, swimming 4 years, student council 3 years, warrior swim club 9 years, lifeguard/teach swim lessons (job)

FUTURE PLANS: Kristi plans to attend DePauw University and become a history/ French teacher and work at Warren. She also wants to coach cross country and swimming for Warren.

"I have formed many friendships from my participation in sports and student council. I think it's important for me to make a difference in my school. These activities are important to me, not only because they're fun, but also because they always challenge me to be a little bit better than I was yesterday."

Kristi Spears 12

" My role models are my coaches because I respect them for their guidance and advice. They're very helpful in both sports and life."



Carvis Herron 12

ACTIVITIES: Kappa league 3 years, gospel choir 4 years, Spanish club 2 years, student council 2 years, church choir 12 years, Jesus Gang (community choir) 7 years, waleed 4 years, connection show choir 3 years, church youth group 12 years.

FUTURE PLANS: Upon graduation Carvis plans to attend the University of Indianapolis and major in secondary education (math). He then plans to teach here at Warren.

"My father is my role model because he is representative of all that I believe in. He is dedicated to everything that he does, he loves and takes care of his family, and he keeps God first in his life. Pretty much, he is the perfect example of a real man."

"People do expect more from me than other students. This usually doesn't bother me because I often expect more from myself. . . I believe the added responsibility is helping me prepare for the future. The fact that I have learned how to handle situations in school has helped me make decisions outside of school that will not only benefit me, but also everyone around me."

ACTIVITIES: Newspaper staff 4 years, student council 4years, National Honor Society 3 years, class publicity coordinator 1 year, football 4 years, wrestling 4 years, baseball 4 years, Sports Graphics (job).

FUTURE PLANS: Scott plans to attend either Depauw University or Wabash college and will major in business.

Scott Shelbourne 12

"My parents have always set a good example for me and I think I just followed their lead. I enjoy doing well in school and in sports, so I push myself to become better in both areas.....I'm so busy I usually only have about three free hours a night. I relax after practice and eat dinner then I usually have about an hour of homework."

"My parents are my role models; they have always been there for me and they sincerely care about me and my activities. They are exactly what parents should be.

Nick Lee 12

ACTIVITIES: Cross country 2 years, track and field 4 years, honors band 4 years, marching band 3 years, symphony orchestra 2 years, S.T.A.R.S. 1 year, Discovery Zone (job),County Seat Clothing (job).

FUTURE PLANS: Nick plans to attend Ball State University or Florida State University and major in education.

"I feel that being a well-rounded musician has given me the discipline to be a good athlete. I love working, playing and just interacting with people. I will be working with people for the rest of my life and the experiences I've had from these activities has helped me greatly."

"Kim Lee, my mother, is my role model because ever since my father became sick she has given me everything and taught me to be self-reliant and strong"

Throughout our lives as students we are told to prepare for the "real world". Students are in the "real world"; we have responsibility, stress, and work as hard as adults. Hopefully these students prove that we are indeed "real world" citizens.

OASIS

right: Dan Tyler works with an elderly lady, teaching her how to use a computer. Dan not only worked with OASIS through the National Honor Society, but he also participated in the Sunshine Committee, a group of students who sends small gifts and cards to people who are having a rough time. In addition, he enjoys working with Project SEND to help clean up and tear down old homes in order to develop neighborhoods.

"I like the feeling of knowing that I helped to make someone's life a little better than before."
- Dan Tyler

Job description: I "train elderly people on computers. We teach them basic functions which allow them to be in touch with the computer world."
How he got started: National Honor Society
His advice for others: "Don't be afraid to try it. The worst thing that can happen is that you don't like it."
Awards: Student Council Member of the Month
His favorite part: "I like the feeling of knowing that I helped to make someone's life a little better than before. I have learned that I take a lot of things for granted that I really should be very grateful for. Volunteering allows me to be exposed to people outside of Warren Central -- people I never would have met, never would have known -- and shows me that life can be extremely hard. It really puts the world in perspective."
How he feels he has affected others: "I presented a positive image for people to follow."

How she got started: "I started volunteering when I joined Student Council my freshman year."
Hours worked per week: 1-3
Her favorite part: "I like seeing the result of what I do. Seeing that I have helped and bettered someone's life makes me feel good about myself and what I have done. I have learned not to take advantage of what I have because one day I may wake up and have nothing. Volunteering is important to me because many people have not been as blessed as I have, and I want to help make their lives better."
Her advice for others: "I would tell them to go to their guidance counselor or call around to different organizations to get information on volunteering. Also, Serteens always welcomes new members who want to get involved with their community. Volunteering is important because it helps to teach you not to take advantage of what you have. It also teaches you responsibility, care, and respect. It helps to build character and make you a better person."
Awards she has won: "I have been Student Council Member of the Month three times and Student Council Member of the Year twice."

"I have learned not to take advantage of what I have because one day I may wake up and have nothing."

Job description: "During the holiday season, I help prepare dinners for Thanksgiving... and I help deliver canned food goods to inner city neighborhoods." She also works with Student Council at the Children's Christmas Party and Baseball Buddies.

Hours worked per week: 5

Her favorite part: "People become so caught up in their own lives that they tend to forget about others in need. Volunteering is important to me because I am giving back to my community that has done so much for me . . . I volunteer to help others, not for recognition and praise."

How she got started: "I started volunteering when I was younger. I became involved with volunteering through my church."

Volunteers Make the Difference

Job description: Student Council Public Relations Officer - "I help plan a lot of activities and also attend such great activities as Baseball Buddies and the Children's Christmas Party."

Hours worked per week: 5-10

How he got started: "I started volunteering at the Children's Museum downtown when I was 10. I volunteered over 500 hours between the ages of 10 and 14."

Awards: Community Action Award from Governor Evan Bayh.

His favorite part: "I enjoy the feeling I get from knowing that I am helping someone who is in need. It is like the Christmas season all year: a time for giving. It has given me a greater idea of the rest of the world. I often think about people I have helped; then, if life becomes a little difficult for me, I look beyond the difficulties and am thankful for my blessings."

"Reach For Your Goals"

Whatever the goal we're pursuing,
No matter how rugged the climb
We're certain to get there,
By trying our best, and taking one day at a time
Forever is hard to imagine
"the future" may seem far away
But every new dawn brings
A wonderful chance to do what we can on that day.
As you reach for the goals
You would like to achieve,
May you find the strength
You need,
to meet every challenge,
One step at a time
till the day when you
Proudly succeed

THE BATTLE OF THE BRAINS

•by Seth Harrison

Within our brains we have two very different paths to follow. The right side of our brain is the source of our 'feelings'. The counterpart, or left side, crunches numbers and controls our speech, analysis, and the concept of logic. Both sides combine to make the whole.

The majority of people are right-handed. However, that doesn't mean that they are more right minded; the opposite brain side controls the opposite body side. How's that for logic? Your left brain controls your right side, while your right side controls your left. In other words, there should be more accountants, CPA's and Vulcans then warm fuzzy types in this world if you look at the odds. We all know that's not true, so what is the importance of right side vs. left side? Do schools teach to one side of our brain more than another? Should men try harder to get into the right side to be more in touch with their feelings? Why do some women suffer from math fear; are they too far out of left brain? Let's go with the flow of right vs. left...

It seems that most courses are presented to our left side, the logical one. We are expected to read the words and understand them. The facts are presented, no fanfare or whistles, just cold hard facts. This works for some, but not all.

The right side of our brain likes the concept of seeing what we learn. To understand a concept it helps some to draw a picture or build a model. To involve all the senses can make learning more memorable and easier. Immersing yourself in a subject means getting fully involved, not merely reading the numbers. Schools sometimes fail to reach out to both sides. To educate the world schools must recognize the difference in people and make a compromise.

- THE AVERAGE HUMAN BRAIN WEIGHS 14 OZ. AT BIRTH.
- THE FIRST VERTEBRATE TO HAVE A BRAIN APPEARED ABOUT 450 MILLION YEARS AGO
- THE HEAVIEST BRAIN WEIGHED 5 POUNDS, 1.1 OZ. AND BELONGED TO A 30-YEAR-OLD MAN.
- THE LIGHTEST BRAIN WEIGHED 2 LB. 6.7 OZ. AND BELONGED A 31-YEAR OLD WOMAN.

WHAT IS YOUR FACE REALLY SAYING?

Some people think that we are really two people. The different sides of our brains think at the same time, but they don't usually think the same thing. Because of this, one side of a face can express one emotion while another may express something completely different. Bicameral images are the images created when the expressions of the right and left side of the face join to form another expression.

Just like the brain is divided into two sections, so is the face. The left side of the brain is in control of the right side of the face and vice versa. If one side of a face shows one emotion, say anger, and the other side of the face shows another emotion, say sadness, then the full face shows another emotion, in this case suspicion. The emotion shown by the full face is called a bicameral image.

Expressions are the earliest and most effective form of communication. Experiments conducted throughout the world in different cultures and with different people showed a universal agreement to basic emotional facial gestures.

The pictures on the left represent the emotions sadness, anger, suspicion, and happiness. See if you can match the emotions to the pictures.

Three Brain Game members traveled to Florida this summer to participate in the Panasonic Academic Challenge. They were Jim Reed, Vince Amlin, and Megan Hauser. The event was made up of 48 teams of four. The team members were given questions and were allowed to discuss the answers together before giving a response. The team practiced every morning from 7:00 until 7:30. After this season, all but one of the team members will graduate.

Science Olympiad Team goes to State

The Science Olympiad team went to state this year for the second time in six years. The last time the team made it to state was 1992. The team members competed in such competitions as Bungee Egg Drop, Redesigned Genes, Surfing the Net, and Can't Judge a Powder. The team gathered once a week for group practice and then came in individually for special attention in their area of competition. Next year, the team hopes to finish first in regionals and in the Top 10 in the state. Science Olympiad members who went to state are: Chris Carter, Minh Chau, Patrick Corrigan, Patrick Curry, John Durham, Phillip Durham, Bob Fairhead, Steven Galligan, Nathan Hawkins, Megan E. Hauser, Brian Kilmaszewski, Ryan Tobin, Rickie Williams, Jr., and Amber Staab.

A CHANGE will do you good

One of the biggest changes this year was the new principal, Mr. Burchett.

YOUR MISSION:

MAKE YOUR WAY THROUGH THE YEAR; LEARN ALL THE NEW RULES AND POLICIES AND MAKE SURE TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF NEW REWARDS FOR GOOD BEHAVIOR. THERE'S A NEW PRINCIPAL, AND IT'S A NEW YEAR. GOOD LUCK!

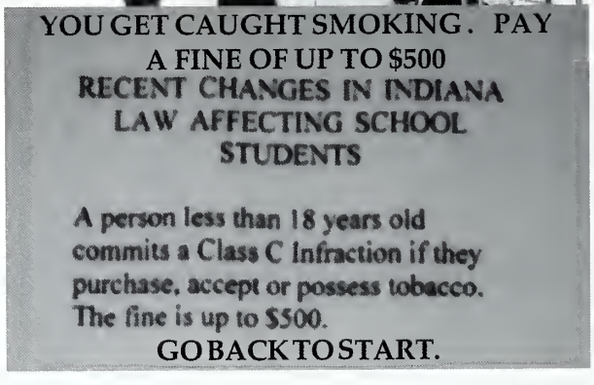
A new late policy began this year. In the past, students were given pink slips if they were late to a class. For periods one, two ,and nine, students had to report to the cafeteria if they were late. Students spent the rest of the period there, instead of in the classroom. If the reason for being late was excused, the student received a pass to their class. At the beginning of the year, the policy only included first period. Second and ninth were added because administrators wanted to make attendance better in more classes. The policy is scheduled to be in effect next year to keep improving attendance.



What do you think of the new smoking policy?

"I think the price is too low. I feel this way because I don't like smokers."
Daniel Harmon, 11th grade

this year, administrators

decided they needed a way to encourage kids to attend school every day. They came up with the perfect incentive-give 'em free stuff. Any student with perfect attendance for a semester got a Time Warrior Ticket. The tickets were for free items from some of our Warren Community Partners. The gifts ranged from food to passes at Putt-Putt. As a students' attendance continued, the students' tickets were upgraded. This reward was for students who made the wise decision to help themselves make a positive move toward a better future.

Most years two productions are put on by the school-the fall play and the spring musical, but this year there were three fall plays. The first, Voices From the High School, was presented on October second, third, ninth, and tenth. It was directed by guest director Ed Trout. The second, Othello, was held on November sixth and seventh, and was directed by Mrs. Reed. In addition to these, a third play, Love Death, and the Prom, directed by Mr. Black, was performed on December eighth and ninth by second-year drama students. The third play was added because there were large numbers of students interested and involved in drama. There will definitely be two plays this fall, and a third is a possibility.

A formal dance, in midyear where all students are welcome. Sounds simple enough, but here's the twist: the students who attend are encouraged to double date with their parents. Most people's first reaction to this would be, "No way!" but when students gave it a shot, they found that they could actually enjoy an evening with their parents.

The dance is a way to have interaction between all students and their parents. The ball is free, the food is free, the music is cool and, if Dad drives, the gas is free! The students who attended the ball found the "Newest Ball of Them All" to be exciting and fun. Look out for this dance and start asking your parents for new dance steps.

BUILDING TRADES

Description: Students design and construct a house close to Warren Central campus. The house is sold to the public when it is finished.

Entrance Requirements: Students must be juniors or seniors, and they must have taken tech math, wood shop, and drafting.

Number of Students: 24

Teacher: Mr. Frederick

Unusual Activities: Some students choose to participate in V.I.C.A. competitions. Students must come to school on Saturday to prepare for the competitions which occur on the county and state levels.

Q: What do you hope to gain from being in this class?

A: I am learning more about team work and how to communicate with rude and uncooperative customers.

Q: What are your plans for the future, and how do they relate to the class?

A: My plans are to go to college for food service areas, and afterward I'd like to own my own business and teach others about food service.

Q: What is the hardest part of being in this class?

A: There is only one thing that could be better about the class; there are seventeen boys and little ol' me. At first they did not know what to think of me. After a couple of days, they realized that they couldn't get rid of me.

Q: What is one thing you would like everyone to know about thisclass?

A: One thing they shouldknow is that the class is a good learning experience. It will challenge people taking it to do something they thought they could never do.

Q: If your class had a snappy catch 'em slogan, what would it be?

A: "Will Frame for Food"

THRESHOLD

Description: Students run and operate a restaurant open to the public. They apply skills learned in the classroom.

Entrance Requirements: Students must be juniors or seniors and enroll for a three hour block. It is suggested that the students take Foods I, II, III, and IV and have a C average in math.

Number of Students: 45

Teacher: Ms. Morris

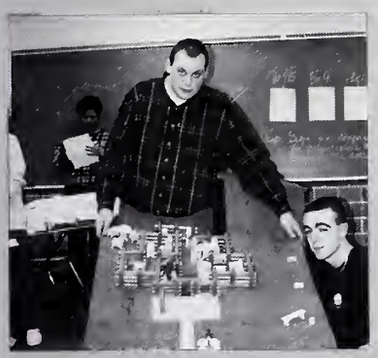
Unusual Activities: Students participated in V.I.C.A. competitions and created bread dough art.

Beyond the classroom

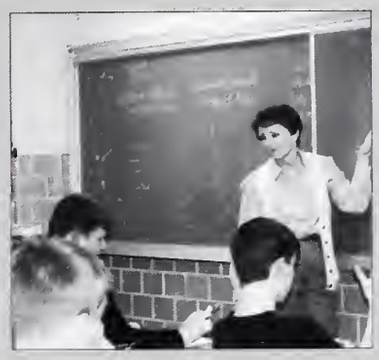
Students in building trades, vocational broadcasting, and the threshold go above and beyond the call of duty for the average class

"tech prep is a lot more fun than regular English. we do a lot more fun stuff, but we also learn a lot more"
-Brad Gibson, senior

In today's ever-increasing technological world, the Tech Prep English classes are outstanding preparation for Warren Central students planning on attending a vocational school or entering the work force directly after high school. The juniors and seniors who take this course are required to read short stories and prepare job brochures as part of their grade. Students develop a portfolio that contains a research paper on a career, a resume, and the results of several interviews with local businessmen.



"Students in some classes get their traditional English and math credits in not so traditional ways"



For students interested in fields of medicine, engineering, and science, advanced math is a must. In this fast-paced, quick track to numbers, a student can graduate with five years of a math background. Students enrolled in advanced math start with Algebra I in eighth grade and finish with Applied Calculus as a senior. While all students taking math at Warren Central High School receive a complete curriculum, the advanced math students take on special projects, and cover areas more in-depth.

"the best activity that I have done in math was a ball activity that helped us with a formula we were learning."
-Mely Armstrong, freshman

Q: What do you find to be the most difficult part of this class?

A: The most difficult part is that the newscasts are graded on how successful they are. One or two stumbles in a three minute newscasts sounds great for a high school kid, but it will only get you a B+ in the class.

Q: Why should someone take this class?

A: You get to do hands-on work at a real, licensed, FCC approved radio station. You also meet new people, and you get to have your voice heard all over the city.

Q: Does this class take any time out of your life outside of school?

A: Yes, we are required to run one game board each semester. That means we have to stay in the studio during a basketball game or football game. Also we have required after-school air shifts and optional play-by-play.

Q: Do you see this class as rewarding or educational?

A: I see it as both. I consider having the opportunity to be on-air and do play-by-play as rewarding, but it is also educational in that the experience will help me as I enter college and prepare to enter into a career in communication.

Description: Students control WENN radio station during school hours and do game coverage for basketball and football season.

Entrance Requirements: Students must successfully complete Broadcasting Technology I and II.

Number of Students: 26

Teacher: Mr. Henn

Unusual Activities: Students do live play-by-play for basketball and football games.

Faces dripped with sweat from the intense heat and humidity; the race was down to the final lap. Sophomore Aaron Harding rounded the final turn and sprinted the last leg crossing the finish line. Exhausted, Harding and senior Brian Miller waited for their combined official time. The total came only 10 seconds from the record 29:25 time set by previous WC alumni Jim Bacon and Carl Long in 1988.

With the beginning of the race at the front of their mind, the team warmed up in silence, preparing physically and mentally.

"Hokum Karem always has had some of the hardest competition in the state and serves as a proving ground for the rest of the season," said Coach Joe Brooks. "My prediction is a state-bound team."

The only cross country powerhouse that didn't attend the Hokum Karem was Carmel. The WC team met up with them later in the season at the Mocanaquah. This meet ended making Warren history, with WC walking away victorious, ending a 19 year drought against Carmel.

Warriors Run to "The Show"

"The Show". Every coach dreams about getting there and this year the Warriors finally made it. After barely missing the cut last year, the runners stepped it up a notch and placed fifth at semi-state sending them flying into the state meet.

The season started with a pretty strong showing at Hokum Karem; this gave a little foresight to any cross-country follower. This team was state-bound.

Mocanaquah was the next big eye-opener as the team beat the top - ranked Carmel Greyhounds for the first time in 19 years. A Carmel dual meet, a little later in the season, wasn't much help in deciding which squad was better as the two teams struck even, tieing 28-28.

Sectionals came and went. So did Regionals. Next was semi-state, the proving ground of cross counrty powerhouses and the final meet of last season. The Warriors were determined not to repeat that outcome and gave it their all.

Making it to state was a great experience for the team. They placed 14th out of the 20 and learned a lot which will prepare them even better for the repeat visit next season.

New Year. Young Team. Great Expectations. RUN

Circled up for stretches and warm-ups, the whole team says the Lord's Prayer. This eight year long tradition mentally prepares the team for the upcoming meet.

The defending sectional champs had their work cut out for them from the very beginning, but exceeded expectations at their first meet, finishing 5th out of 14 teams. Senior Kristi Spears and freshman Kristen Swisher combined for the best total time crossing the finish line with the watch stopping at 24:41.7.

"Times are a lot better than last season already," said Coach Jane Seymour. "For example, last years' 3rd group finished about the same time the 5th team did this year."

Coach Seymour also explained that with a young team, the first meet is always tough because of the feeling of fear and the pressure to do the best possible. Fortunately, the pre-season jitters were snuffed out by the confidence instilled in the runners over summer training and the team performed better than it ever has before.

Sophomore Amber Manriquez and freshman Kristen Swisher staggered across the finish line placing 2nd and 3rd respectively against Brebeuf contributing to a 15-47 Warren romp. Winning became a tradition as the team went on to sweep sectionals and go on to place 4th of 10 at regionals sending them into the semi-state competition. The team received 11th place at semi-state ending their spectacular season.

"I didn't have to tell them much to get them going. Before one meet I gave them a pretty long pep talk and the out come was a loss. So, for sectionals I just told them to run and left out all the talk. We won sectionals", said Coach Seymour.

An old saying has come back to WC sports, "Back 2 Back." The track team had won state twice in a row and the track shirts the following year sported the phrase "Back 2 Back". Now the girls' cross country team can carry the same title. They are back-to-back sectional champs for the first time in the team's history.

Each year the team gets better and better. Last year's 17th place semi-state finish has turned into an 11th place finish this year. Hopefully the tradition will continue to a three time sectional championship and the team will become an even bigger power next season.

Work ethic, not size, and power, earned the Warriors a winning record this season.

"This team has great chemistry. They link each other together. We have a great combination of kids this year," commented head coach Dave Shelbourne. "They set aside their personal goals on the field and work together as a team."

Teamwork. That seemed to be the focus of the 1999 Warrior Football team. After starting off with a 2-2 record, the Warriors looked forward to their face-off in the RCA Dome against Carmel. A tough schedule made for a not-so-pretty record, "but the overall attitude, commitment, and work ethic in this team was better than I've seen in years," Shelbourne said.

The closeness of this team was evident throughout the season. The selfless acts and "no 'I' in team" attitude built the unity necessary to be strong and successful. The commitment of the team made for a close-knit group of hard-working, hard-hitting football players.

Exemplifying the senior leadership at the homecoming game against T. H. South, Matt Griggs went on a kicking spree in the second half. After trailing the Braves by 10 for an entire half, Griggs went on to kick the game-winning field goal from 48 yards out.

With hands lifted high in celebration due to a touchdown against North Central, the Warriors offense walks off the field with their eyes set on victory. This was an accurate vision as the Warriors defeated the Panthers 20-15.

The battle against Carmel made for another victory for the warriors in the RCA dome. Lifting spirits to an all-time high, they went on to lose only three games the rest of the season. This attitude among the team was all summed up by coach Shelbourne in one word: Excellent. "They were outstanding and hard-working."

This winning streak was greatly impacted by the improvements of the offensive and defensive line. Rising hopes to another level was an embarrassing victory against Lawrence North 30-0. This gave the Warriors the right of passage to advance deeper into sectional competition against Arlington.

Arriving at Arlington, an overwhelmingly tense atmosphere was prevalent. Pressure to win caused nervousness to set in as the Warriors hustled on the field. These feelings turned into pure desire as they entered the locker room, down by 2 touchdowns. But desire alone proved not to be enough for the offense as the Warriors lost to the Knights 14-9.

"Fun". This is the one word that coach Shelbourne used to describe the season. " All the seniors played together as a team and showed outstanding leadership for the younger players."

How do you feel about IMPORTANT HOW DO YOU SHOW WHAT ARE YOUR VIEWS ON Sportsmanship? IS what do you think about What does sportsmanship mean to you?

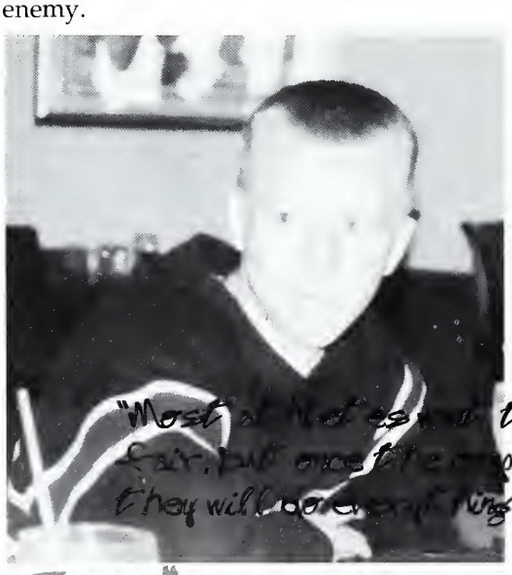
Morris - I think sportsmanship is when you have a competitive drive and still respect your opponents after it's over. My attitude when I play sports is I'll be cool with a person but as soon as a race starts, I'm their worst enemy.



"Most athletes want to be good sports and play fair, but once the competition gets intense, I think they will do everything to win at any cost."

- Brian Miller

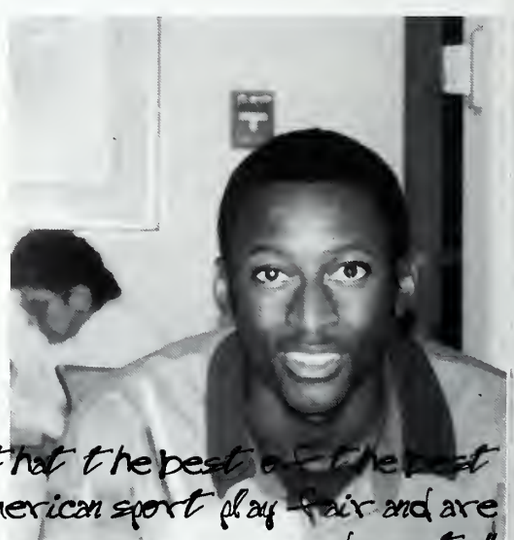
Focus Group

Nicole - I think sportsmanship is just a word that describes your attitude and your emotions toward a person in your sport. But it mostly comes from how you treat people in your everyday life.

How did you learn sportsmanship?

Amanda - My parents always told me just not to be rude to people and to not be a poor sport about things.

Morris - My coach said what you do in every practice and how you warm up, that's how you do in a meet. I try to make every practice like it's my last practice, and every meet like it's my last meet.



"I believe that the best of the best in every American sport play fair and are good sports"

- Morris Childs

How have you demonstrated sportsmanship?

Elita - If someone isn't showing sportsmanship back and they knock you down, if you knock them down, then you give them a hand to help them up, it shows that you don't really hate them. It's just a game.

Brian - During a race this guy and I were going at it and elbowing each other, but after the race we shook hands, like "we're sorry and it's cool."

What are the benefits of good sportsmanship?

Derrick - I think that sportsmanship makes people respect you more and it makes you appreciate the game you play a lot more.

Morris - Sportsmanship helps you accept not winning.

How does sportsmanship emotionally affect the team?

Nicole - Bad sportsmanship reflects on what your school , what you represent, and what you stand for personally.

Brian - I think if you show bad sportsmanship it gives the other team more of reason to want to beat you.

What inspired you to play sports?

Amanda - I saw Mary Lou Retton on TV in the Olympics.

Elita -My cousin played soccer and I thought it was really neat.

Nicole -My dad used to be in the Army and I used to go with him to the gym and watch him play basketball.

People who show good sportsmanship and play fair will overcome people who want to win at any cost. There's also a greater chance of outsmarting your opponent.
- Derrick Miller

Derrick - My dad got me playing because he used to shoot around with me when I was little.

Morris - My track career started when I was really little and racing with my cousins.

Brian - I was going to do tennis, but then I was told cross-country was better.

How does playing sports affect your life?

Elita - You have to sometimes make sacrifices of yourself to help make the team better.

Nicole - It makes you a competitor in everyday life.

Amanda - Everybody knows you as an athlete . It's part of your identity.

"Sometimes I wish I could just be a regular student and go home after school and go to sleep" - Derrick Miller

Senior Amanda Cecrle moves into her next position during the floor excercises of the meet. Afterwards the teams all lined up and congratulated each other with handshakes.

[illegible] and being a good sport [illegible] professional sports. Overall athletes love the sports they play and respect the game and their competitors.
- Elita Lopez

What motivates you?

Nicole - Things that you see that you want to do you have to work hard to get and that makes you work harder. That's what motivates me.

Morris - I want another ring, that's my motivation. I'm kinda greedy, but yeah I want another one.

Elita - My motivation is that I just love to play the game because I know that even though I might not be that good I just love to play.

Amanda - People come to you from different schools and tell you that they enjoyed watching you. State was my last meet and people's parents from other schools went up to me to tell me that they enjoyed watching me all those years and about how they will miss me. It's really nice to get that kind of recognition for something that you love to do.

"Contact sports are very much "win at any cost" but individual sports are more directed towards sport smanship."
- Amanda Cecrle

How do you feel about being a role model?

Derrick - Sometimes I feel like I'm on top of the world when a little kid comes up to me and asks me for my autograph. It makes me feel good that they watch me and want to be like me.

Leaping through the air, senior Morris Childs completes his final jump at the Warren Relays. Childs had the longest jump of the meet with a 21' 3.5" distance.

The Heart of Sports

Wrestling takes up a lot of junior Willie Campbell's time. Being rated the number one contender in his weight class at the beginning of the season can put a lot of pressure on a person. Yet, when it all comes down to it, Campbell still gets up after almost every match and shakes hands with his opponent whether he won or lost. Sportsmanship can really show a person's character, and when displayed well, honors their school and community. The same goes with bad sportsmanship. The player who runs to the locker screaming that he's been wronged is much less respected than the one who accepts the referee's decision and tries harder the next time he competes. Bad sportsmanship is still very prevalent, even among the fans. Take the MIC Conference wrestling meet for example; a huge brawl between Carmel and Warren fans almost erupted after Warren won the final weight class. Athletes and fans alike need to learn to show respect and sportsmanship, or else situations like the one mentioned could get out of hand.

Morris - Little kids come up to me and ask me for advice. It feels great, because even as you think, they are watching you. I have to be an example. A lot of leadership comes from that

What do you think about the leadership code and what do you think it's strong points are?

Amanda - I think the leadership code has a good message. Especially the part about the dedication and commitment. I think those are two very important keys to being a leader.

Nicole - The leadership code is being respected, giving respect, and knowing how to carry yourself as well as others. Its strong points are being able to be a leader and not abusing its privileges or what it stands for.

Elita - You have to conduct yourself in a manner that portrays self-respect and dignity, in other words, set a good example. To do that you have to have morals so that people can look to you for an example. As a leader you have to realize that there are a lot of people who look to you for guidance. The world doesn't revolve around just one person.

Brian - I think the leadership code is a good idea. It tells how a leader is supposed to act. It reminds me that people are watching, and I should always try to be a leader. It reminds me of what I did to get where I am today.

Morris - I think the leadership code is an excellent statement because it shows what our school is for and what our school is about. I think its strong points are the respect and honesty because if you live by those two words you will be successful in all you do.

Derrick - I think the leadership code is a great thing going on in our school. If everyone was willing to follow the code, our school would be that much more peaceful. I think the strong points include honesty and pride. If you're an honest person, everyone will trust that you will do the right thing; if you have pride, you will go out of your way to do everything right.

HOW WARREN TEAMS SHOW THEIR SPORTSMANSHIP

- The boys' track team shows good sportsmanship after every meet by congratulating the opposing team for a competitive meet. On the team warm-down lap, the athletes usually meet with the other team and shake hands.

- The boys' and girls' soccer teams show sportsmanship after a game by lining up on the endline in a straight line with their hands out to give the opposing team a "good game" handshake.

- The wrestling team shows good sportsmanship by shaking their opponents hands before and after the match. Also, after the match is completed, the wrestler shakes hands with the other team's coach.

- The baseball team shows sportsmanship by lining up in a line after a game and giving hand shakes to the opposing team and its coaches.

Senior Derrick Miller rises to the occasion, taking control of the game with his overpowering jump shot. Despite Miller's contribution, the warriors lost the match against Terre Haute North, 48-51.

Dedication, sportsmanship, concentration, all factors for the team.

Arriving at the golf course, the team got ready for another meet. There were last minute tips and bits of encouragement, along with a few jokes. Coach Darko made the rounds as players lumbered up and practiced putting. In golf, you didn't need to rush, you only needed to have dedication, concentration, and sportsmanship.

Practice was vital, as was being aware of constant wind changes and which angles to hit. As well, golf was the only sport where the members from one team were paired up with the members of the opposite team for the whole meet.

With no wins during the first half of the season, things began to look dismal. However, the girls' spirits were still kept high. Meets brought on congratulations and encouragement. "Not only in golf, but in all sports and activities, you're on a team not just representing yourself, but the team and the rest of the school," stated Jessica Lascola.

"Promising," said Coach Al Darko. "That's how I'd describe our season."

Promising in the sense that as time went on, the team got better. The girls gained more confidence, became less nervous, and their scores continually improved. They acquired more focus and determination. The match against Decatur was the first time they scored under a 200 with a score of 196. Out of twelve teams at sectionals, the team received a seventh place.

"There were a couple of ups and downs this year, but I had fun. I personally improved and I am hoping to become an even better golfer," said Jessica Lascola. "I'm looking forward to next year."

One of the team's disadvantages was that some players did not return from last year. "There were a couple of girls that I wish would have returned to help us this year," said Coach Darko.

Coach Darko also stated, "There are some things that I'd like the girls to do in the off season. I'd like to see them out on the golf course when they get the chance. I would like them to come back next year better players, and also a better team."

The boys went out ready to win, but had a dissapointing season.

Dedication and determination are all part of what it takes to be a good team. With these features and more, the boys' tennis team was eager to get their season started, but were shut down by their first two opponents, Southport and Cathedral. After the two losses, the boys' team got into action and made the rest of their opponents work for their victories.

Many of the boys had the talent to pull the team ahead in several of the matches. One player that stuck out in Coach Grecthan Brooks' mind was freshman Scott Davis. "He doesn't get caught in the psychological stand point of the game," Coach Brooks said, "he just goes out and plays."

Some goals that the team had were to develop their basic skills and to win sectionals this year at Perry Merdian. Getting focused on these goals was done. Students got foucused by taking a run, doing some stretching, and by having a senior give a pep talk before every match. Watching their competition while warming up was routine for the team to see what skills their competitior had. With this routine the team was able to come back in midseason to reclaim their name.

Encouraging. The one word that described the season the boys' tennis team had. "It was my first season with the boys," Coach Brooks said. "The boys were confident and worked hard and have tasted the success they needed to." Success indeed. After an early season loss to Franklin Central, the team came back in the first round of county to beat the Flashes 4-1, advancing them to the semifinals. Beating the Franklin Central Flashes was a big accomplishment since the team had been beaten by Franklin Central the past two years.

One player who had the most impact on the team's success was junior Matthew McDowell. McDowell played #1 singles and was a consecutive winner for the team. McDowell and other upperclassmen, like senior Matt Harris, played heavily during the off-season. They kept up their skill level by playing in tournaments at the Indianapolis Tennis Center downtown and by taking lessons at North Central.

After the disappointment of being placed in Lawrence North's sectional instead of Perry Meridian's, the team switched gears to different goals. One of these goals was to keep up their positive attitudes and stay determined to have a successful season. With their positive attitude and determination the team succeeded when it was needed the most. Senior Keith Utter demonstrated this determination during a practice before sectionals. Practicing hard paid off when it came time for tough matches, but the team was sadly let down in sectionals with a score of 0-5 against the Wildcats of Lawerance North.

After their taste of success, the team took great strides the rest of the season. They got better, stronger, and prouder of their victories.

Overall improvement throughout season leads to success in many areas

"Leadership is a major factor on and off the courts for our team." began Mike Hagist, the new varsity head coach of the girls' volleyball team. " I believe our captains Katie Spilker, Niki Adamson, and Carlye Fieldon are our key players because they hold this quality."

The lady warriors volleyball team began the season struggling a little, but regained footing to have victories over Lawrence Central, Lawrence North, and Perry Meridian.

"We come out and play fairly well, but after a couple of mistakes we seem to lose it. We are practicing on our consistency and that will improve our game. Right now we are our own worst enemy, though," commented Mr. Hagist after losing to Center Grove.

Improvement was continuous, especially in the areas of passing and blocking, due to the fact that the team did not have much height.

With sectionals around the corner, Mr. Hagist went over techniques and the mental game with the girls. "Play as if every point is game point. As long as you play as hard as you can, you are all winners."

Whistling, cheering, and laughter was all heard while entering the south gymnasium during the second half of the girls' volleyball season games. "Seeing some of the guys make pyramids and the girls doing cheers got us more into the games and pumped us up," recalls junior Niki Adamson. "We really had a lot of fun and played better with all of their support."

Dedication, determination, and discipline were three major factors in this team's success. Their improvement skyrocketed, winning all of their home games excluding one. Sophomores Ruthanne Clark and Ebony White stepped up and worked hard in both practices and many games. Holly Tarver worked at her defense and became a key player also. "We played more as a team and learned each other's strengths and weaknesses towards the middle of the season," indicated junior Rachel Kriech, who also worked hard and improved her game as the season progressed.

Many of the girls entered the sectionals confidently and believed they had a good chance to win and go to regionals. "It could have gone either way, " declared Coach Haggist after losing to Franklin Central 2 to 0. "Unfortunately it went the wrong way for us this time."

Coach Haggist had already began to plan next season's game plan and strategies. "Next year we will have a better summer program. We also are looking forward to many experienced players returning and coming up from junior varsity. With the same consistency in improvement next year as we had this season, I think we have a good chance of going all the way."

Glazed looks of determination in their eyes, the will to win fired up in their hearts, their inspiration at its climax as if the great Pele had just given them words of motivation, the boys' soccer team took the field ready for the opponent.

Nothing to loose, nothing to fear, only respect to be gained: this was the attitude of the boys' soccer team. However, when the team fell short of winning the first three games against Heritage Christian, Lawrence Central and Carmel, winning became the main objective.

Half-time breaks were often used to try to regain strength and motivation, as seen here in the game against L.C.

Finally breaking the streak, the team rampaged back in their fourth game of the year with a blow-out win against Broad Ripple by a score of 9-1.

Playing at the same tempo as the top ranked teams in the state, the boys have had much success in hanging tough until the end. "The boys' team is playing a fast-paced game, and we have to keep on the move to keep up with the other teams," said Head Coach Gary Roberts.

Senior Ryan Cannon hustles to beat an L.C. defender to the ball. The Warriors would stand firm against a number one ranked L.C. team effort, but hustle didn't show up on the score board as the boys team would go on to loose to Lawrence Central 4-1.

Battling for the posession of the ball are varsity players Phet Pannhonovoung and Brandinn Britton. Tough agressive play in practice would help the boys team advance to the first game of semi-state where they met the Red Devils of Pike.

With talent on the field, the attitude to gain respect in their head, and the will to win in their hearts, the boys' soccer team advanced to the semi-state tournament.

With a regular season record of 4-8-3, the boys' team now had little to loose, their record didn't reflect the way they played. Shown here on the right is senior defender Scott Bradley showing good ball control against North Central. Controlling the tempo of the game would be a factor in the boys success in the state tournament.

The team faced an easy but not automatic trip to the state regional. After demoralizing Beech Grove with a score of 7-0 and New Palestine 8-1 the boys faced an obstacle against Perry Meridian, who knocked the Warriors out of the county tournament earlier in the year.

The tables turned though; with a heart stopping, adrenaline rushing game that went into a penalty kick shoot-out, a new hero emerged, sophomore and starting goal keeper David Penelva.

Next, the semi-state match-up proved to be highly intense and also concluded in a penalty kick shoot-out after two tough overtime periods; however, after a hard fought game, the score was 5-4.

Perserverance helped girls succeed, attitude carried them to victory

Building the foundation for a strong girls' soccer program took place this year. It was a steady process that took time, but the girls were finally able to keep up with their opponents in steady and evenly distributed games both offensively and defensively.

Led by captain Elita Lopez, the girls had plenty of motivation and leadership. With a strong attacking group consisting of Amy Harrell and a fierce defense initiated by Julie Peterson and Kimmy Mieners, the girls were a well-rounded team.

"I think the key to our success this year is the defense; it is solid." said Head Coach Gary Roberts. This defense was evident as goal keeper Laura Brower made a save in goal during a warm-up practice before the North Central game.

After a 3-0 loss, Coach Roberts went on to explain, "We beat ourselves with the defensive mistakes we make, and if we can reduce that then we will win more games."

The team put up a good fight against their opponents, and even though they didn't salvage wins all the time, they leave the field knowing they gave 110%.

As the end of the season grew nearer, the girls' soccer team knew that the season had been a success. Even though the record wasn't perfect and the games weren't always pretty, the team looked back to the season with pride. The girls' schedule was made up of very competitive teams, and the difference between winning and loosing was often merely a lucky goal.

The girls had enthusiasm going into the season that soon roared into a prideful flame. As the season went on the team seemed to be getting better at finishing and putting games away. With a season record of 7-6-2, their accomplishments were more than how many wins they had. The team got better together as the season passed; not only did their skills reach a higher level, but they seemed to realize that playing for the love of the game was the best way to play.

"I think the girls got more consistent, they got better as a team as the season went on." said Coach Gary Roberts.

The lady warriors had big ambitions as the state tournament came around. "The attitude and competitiveness carried over to the post season," said Roberts. The girls showed that they were capable of playing at the level they knew they could, in the first game of the sectionals, where they easily beat Scecina 7-0. The good sportsmanship was evident as they gave high-fives at the conclusion of the game. The girls advanced to the second round where they hoped for a sectional title to bring home, but fell just short of that as they were defeated by Lawrence Central. " I really think that we played at a level high enough to beat Lawrence Central, we just couldn't pull it through." said Roberts

Even though the girls couldn't secure a sectional championship coach Roberts is very optimistic for the future. "I would like to see the girls next season put away their individual goals and play for the team as they did this year."

High expectations, aspirations and the will to win.

Heart, athletic ability and the fire to compete was the formula of success for the boys' wrestling team. A well-rounded team consisted of skillful wrestlers in all 14 weight classes and that is exactly what the boys had.

There were high hopes and great expectations for this year's squad. Some of those expectations were that many of them would qualify for state and the hopes were that they would come back as a state champion.

Showing no mercy at the 130 pound weight class was former state runner up Willie Campbell. Within minutes he put his Center Grove opponent in a cradle and pinned him for the victory. The team was victorious with a score of 55-13.

The team had motivation and that motivation was exhibited through team captains and seniors. " I say things to the team before a meet and tell them what they need to do, but when it comes to motivation I leave that up to the seniors and the captains," said head coach Gene Nesbit.

" We have a great group of guys this year one of the best that I can remember." said coach Nesbit.

Gripping his Carmel opponent with no mercy and wrestling to win is 103 pound sophomore Derek Nickleson. Even with a tough 6-5 loss the Warriors would prove to be the better team over all, as they defeated Carmel to capture a sectional championship.

Staring deeply into his Carmel opponent's eyes and putting fear in his heart, is senior John Sponsel. John would go on to loose this match 7-6 in a sectional battle. Warren would prevail and win sectionals to go on and meet Cathedral in the state team Regionals.

As hope glimmered in their eyes and competitiveness burned from within, the boys wrestling team knew they had what it took to be a state contender. That hope grew as they won various tournaments such as the New Castle Duals and also became the MIC conference champions.

The season would bring even more confidence as they were the runner-up in the Merrillville Invitational and placed second at County. Coming home as sectional champions was the last major win as a team.

Senior Andy St. Laurent tries for the reversal against his Center Grove opponent. Head coach Gene Nesbit and assistant coach Matthew Schroeder yell words of advice in the backround. Even with this help Andy lost 5-4, but the team proved victorious.

As the season went on but the team didn't advance past regionals, and the goal of going to state as a team faded, a select few reached within themselves to find what it takes to move on and compete in state individually.

Seniors Bob Dinn at the 152 weight class and Junior Marcus Ellison wrestling at the 171 weight class advanced to state. Junior Willie Campbell made his second appearance at state, and returned as a state runner-up for two years in a row.

As the season drew to a close, the team realized that winning for themselves was only a fraction of winning. A foundation in Warren wrestling will not be with the team next year, head coach Gene Nesbit is retiring. Even though his physical presence will not be felt in the wrestling room his words of inspiration and discipline will always echo in the hearts of those he has coached.

Set to go, sophomore Brian Honan prepares for the start of the next event, the 100 yard backstroke. He went a time of 12:36 placing third and earning three points for the team.

Talent has compensated for the size of the team this season. Efforts are better and more genuine, keeping the interest level high overall and practice attendance up. The collectiveness of the team has also helped a lot. "All the swimmers seem to work very well together," said Coach Steven Maxwell.

Weather has been an inhibiting factor this season. Practice had to be cancelled for almost a week because of snow and ice. This break slowed conditioning which hurt the team later in the season.

Before every meet, the coach sits down with the team in the locker room and discusses possible goals for the upcoming meet. With only 11 total swimmers and divers the small group can't always focus on winning, the main thing is always to beat previous personal records. If the individual swimmers' goals are reached then the team will have a successful season.

Launching himself into the water, sophomore Jason Justice flies off the starting blocks in the 200 yard freestyle. Later in sectionals, Jason swam a lifetime best of 2:07 in the same event.

The team had a great season as they racked up three wins, something that hadn't been done since the early 90's. Two other meets came down to the final event, once against Southport and again swimming New Palestine. Both ended up in losses because of Warren's lack of depth.

"A team needs talent and numbers to win meets, and hopefully the swim club will peek interest," said Coach Steven Maxwell. "Although it may not help out right away, our numbers will eventually increase, enabling the team to fill events."

The thing that really stuck out this year was the constant focus of the team. This created a better work ethic, more effective practices, and a number of other things which contributed to their success. They had a goal to do the best they could at sectionals and they did.

Nothing matters more during the season than sectionals. It's the only meet where the times really count. Everything came down to the wire and the seeding jumped around as much as the NCAA basketball tournament.

Sectionals went well for the Warriors this year. The team placed four people in six individual events and all 3 relays in Saturday's finals. Overall the team came out 5th, the best in a long time. Freshman Chas Grimm finished 5th in the 500 free leaving him as the man to beat this time next year. The same situation goes with junior Nathan Oertel who placed 6th in the 50 free against a bunch of seniors and only one returning junior.

"Next season should prove to be a very strong one. Our team will begin next year with some depth because of the number of returning swimmers and hopefully the up-and-coming freshmen will fill in the rest," said Coach Maxwell.

While swimmers were in the water for a heat, cheers and bits of advice were heard from the other team-mates standing along the side of the pool.

"The girls have been very supportive of each other so far this season," stated Coach Farnsworth.

She also commented, "If we continue along the path that we're on right now, we should be able to reach all of our goals we have set for the season."

As she approaches her last turn-around, lungs pleading for air, muscles rapidly fatiguing, one last lap to go, a swimmer finds her last bit of energy and uses it for the final burst of speed to shave a few more seconds off of her time. Once completed, she takes her time to catch her breath, and gets out of the pool.

This scene was a common one for the girls' swim team. Each member had the encouragement of other teammates, the strong determination to succeed, and was thinking about improvements for the next season while the current season was coming to a close.

"My teammates encouraged me if I got a low score or a bad time," stated Heather Schwenck. "My parents helped me get through the meets, and always encouraged me to do my best." This encouragement of family and friends was a vital part of the team.

With determination, the team was able to have one more win than last year, and the most successful season in five years. "I improved on all of my times from last year and my attitude improved as well," said Kristi Spears.

As the season continued, each member put forth extra effort to make sure personal and team goals were reached. This meant crawling out of bed on Tuesday and Thursday mornings for optional practices, or swimming in an occupied part of the pool during meets.

All members of the team, including seniors, thought about how the next season could be improved. "I'm a senior, but I think if the underclassmen swim in the off-season, they will improve greatly," Spears also commented.

Cooperation and conditioning show many improvements on and off the court

The lady warriors started the year off at a slow pace, but hoped to revive their game during the second half of the season. They gradually began to improve their game as sectionals arose.

"We've seen many teams such as Ben Davis and Franklin Central play already this season," proclaimed Coach Wilcox, the varsity head coach of the girls' basketball team. "I know we have the ability to beat any team out there. We just need to practice, practice, practice!"

That's exactly what the ladies worked on, practicing their hearts out. Most practices consisted of different types of drills to improve their ball handling, rebounding, and defense. Over Christmas break, a large amount of time was used for conditioning.

"Practice is long and strenuous, but the way our coach has us practice really helps. We are starting to block better as a team, and we have more positive attitudes," stated Niki Adamson, who was a large factor on the team this year.

Many girls played great this season. Nicole Petty, Ruthanne Clark, and freshman Rachel Clark were all high scorers in an early season game against Carmel.

Looking at the lady warriors' record, many did not notice much of an improvement, but mentally the ladies pulled together as a team and were proud of themselves.

The girls' basketball team had a demanding and strenuous second-half schedule. It consisted of games against many challenging opponents such as Center Grove, North Central, and Terre Haute South. Defense and rebounding improved, but as the sectionals arose many girls realized there was still a large amount of work to be done and little time. The ladies also lost a lot of fan support that was needed in the second half of the season. " It would help us a lot if we had more support in the stands. We always seemed to play better with the band there, so maybe if we would have attracted more fans we would have improved," explained head coach Wilcox.

Many lady warriors played their best during the second half of the season. Ashley Mays averaged 19 points in their last five games against difficult teams such as Mt. Vernon. Seniors Nicole Petty, Jerrilyn Trotter, and Phaedra Smith contributed in numerous ways this season and taught many underclassmen skills that will be needed next season. Petty also was the leading rebounder throughout the season and had many high scoring games. Other returning ladies, such as Ruthanne Clark and Niki Adamson contributed a great deal during the second-half. Ruthanne Clark was a great rebounder and had an average of two steals per game. Niki Adamson, helped keep the team together mentally during struggling times. Freshman Rachel Clark also revealed her talents this season while playing in both junior varsity and almost all varsity games. " We are going to miss all three of our seniors. Hopefully we will have a good summer and improve in all the areas we need it in," stated Coach Wilcox, " I also feel everyone contributed this season. There wasn't just one or two key players here. It was a team effort and we wouldn't have been the same without even one person."

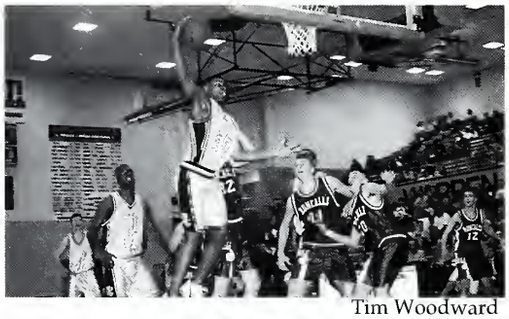
Star story gives team confidence to succeed

ZONE

by Monica Howard



Tim Woodward

The pressure of the fans was hard to cope with since there were so many pre-season goals set for them by everyone. One major source of this pressure was the Indianapolis Star sports article on three talented Warriors, seniors Derrick Miller, Aaron Hogg, and Jermaine Dearman.

After the article the team had to group together and focus in on the upcoming season. Since no one was given the spotlight, everyone was a contributor to the progression of the team. Senior Antwain Jarrard was a major contributor, showing powerful offense in the season opener against Roncalli.

After defeating Roncalli, the team was ready for action. There was a minor set back, which was an early season loss to Lawrence Central, 70-73, the same team that kept Warren from the sectional title in the 1998 season.

One thing the team worked on during the season, according to Coach Scott Heady, was their aggressiveness in the second half. Unfortunately this year wasn't enough for the team to win county. The team lost to Pike 54-64.

When asked what word best described his team's season "progress", was the first word that came to Coach Scott Heady's mind. His basketball team was heralded as one of the most threatening powers in the state and made many strides over the season to turn the heads of basketball lovers everywhere.

Although the beginning of the season saw some early losses, the team bounced back and took on their storied preseason image, boasting one of the best front-courts in the state. Their domination in the paint helped decide many games that came down to the final "nail-biting" seconds, like the win versus Terra Haute South.

Talent was apparent in these close games like the match-up against North Central. Talent, like senior Aaron Hogg's ability to let it "float" in from the free throw line, was shown in the battle against the Panthers. This skill kept the Warriors close late in the game but it wasn't enough with the final score 61-65.

Undaunted by the loss to North Central the team rallied winning five of their next six games including a Scecina massacre 94-51. Major contributors through the season were seniors Hogg, Jermaine Dearman, Derrick Miller, and Antwain Jarrad. With these players as the team's backbone their successful journey was easily accomplished.

Everything came down to the sectional tournament, the proving ground of every good team. The first team the boys went against was number-one ranked Lawerence North. Warren held the lead most of the game but bad calls and fouls lost it in the end 64-49. Next year's season will be harder since the team's key players will be gone but their strong underclassmen representation was outstanding.

Prestige

Ten ladies, four events, and one goal. The Warren Central Gymnastics team hasn't made it out of sectionals as a team since 1997. And this is what they planned to do. With senior leadership from teammates like Ashley Holden and Amanda Cercle, this goal didn't seem too far off.

For a team to make it out of Sectionals, either four girls have to place, or they have to place second in combined scores.

Other key contributers like sophomores Lauren Bradley and Jessica Dalton seemed to make that goal more reachable. Support from their teammates and head coach Barb Schultz gave the girls the extra edge they need to do their personal best on each event. This support was shown as the team huddled up before a meet to regroup and show some team spirit.

With only two home meets, the Lady Warriors kept fans at the edge of their seats while watching each of the four events; the beam, bars, vault, and floor. Being the home site of the Pike meet and MIC gave homecourt advantage to the Lady Warriors. This contributed to the second place win at the MIC meet, which gave the team high hopes for the rest of the season.

Improvements on team consistency during the first part of the season changed the goals for the gymnasts to "more individual ones," commented coach Barb Schultz.

The attitude of the team was exciting. "We had a lot of fun," said Holden. The team joked and played around while keeping enough seriousness to encourage and cheer each other on.

That encouragement included advice on staying focused. "If you mess up, keep on going, because you still have more to do," coach Schultz told her girls.

That focus lead to both senior captains advancing to the All-County team. Although they didn't make it out of sectionals as a team, growth and improvement took the spotlight towards the end of the season. Missing sectional competition by only two points, the gymnasts kept their high spirits and hopes as Cecrle moved on to represent Warraen at the state level.

She went on to set the base score on beam and competed in the vault among the best gymnasts in Indiana. "I had a great time. I was really glad that I got the chance to go to state my senior year," commented Cecrle.

Senior captains Amanda Cecrle and Ashley Holden left the undeclassmen with aspirations for doing even better next year. Among those underclassmen were freshmen Lauren Bradley. Her favorite event was the floor, as shown when she stretches to get ready for her turn against the other MIC teams on Februaary 6th.

A strong finish to the season created a standard waiting to be surpassed next year. With two graduating seniors and no juniors, next year's underclassmen will have to step up to the challenge of advancing to state without any senior leadership.

Warren Baseball.... the tradition lives on

by Dan Hoffman

Heritage, tradition, pride: three words that sum up Warren Central baseball. Expectations ran high this year as a strong group of men hoping for victories and success played the "great American pastime."

The baseball environment was rich with leadership, especially senior leadership. Eight seniors carried the team, with six returning varsity letter winners.

Leadership was only part of the formula for a successful team; positive motivation also was present as the hope of a state championship lingered in the minds of players and coaches.

To fulfill these aspirations the team had to focus and work together. Senior Brad Glazier, while returning to the dugout, gets praise from his teammates after hitting a three-run home run against Mt. Vernon. The Warriors would go on to win this game 12-2.

The Warriors jump started the season and gained confidence with a close 3-2 victory over Perry Meridian, the 4th ranked team in the state.

Confidence and motivation kept growing with other victories, including a 10-2 win over New Palestine and a crushing defeat over Mt. Vernon 12-2. "We've had ups and downs but we're improving. Our goal for the season is to win MIC Conference and state," said Junior Kyle Limbauch.

Focus was displayed as the men took the field, all united to play determined to go out and "compete"and win as a team. It was like losing didn't exist to these men, winning was the only answer. As they took the field at the bottom of the 5th each one stepped with confidence in unison, as they all took their positions.

The Warriors baseball team was just that, a team, there were no superstars on this team, there were 16 young men that paracticed and competed together.

What made this team different from all the other teams in Warren history? Nothing , the tradition of excellence in baseball carries on from year to year. The team is formed from guys who want to play baseball and want to win, year after year.

We can hail the teams success or harp on their failures and disappointments; but that isn't as important as what this team did, and the way they played the game of baseball both mentally and physically.

The Warriors were successful. Playing with talent on the field produced many positives, but playing with heart on the field produced success. This team had heart, and when the score was against them and they were down, their heads were not. Their confidence was overwhelming and their school pride was respectable.

"The highlight of our season was winning against Lawrence North in the regular season 3-2. We played with a lot of heart and won when we probably shouldn't have. Over all we could improve on our consistency next year," said Junior Mike Sheely.

Making the big plays down the stretch usually determined how the Warriors would prevail. Junior Jeramy Neibert rounds third base and hustles for home againt Franklin. With crucial plays late in the game like this, the Warriors pulled off a 4-3 victory. Playing seven innings as a team made the difference in winning and losing.

For the varsity team to make state, 100 percent participation was required.

After receiving last bits of advice and a final pep-talk, members of the varsity softball team began to file out of the dugout and take separate places on the field. Each member of the team had the attitude and the will to succeed that is needed to have an all-around good season, allowing them to start the season out with three consecutive wins.

"This year's team is very upbeat and more cohesive than some teams in recent years," stated Coach Jerry Highley.

The last time that the varsity softball team went to state competition was in 1997, but this time around things could be different. This year, they had a strong desire to go back.

"We are going to close strong in the County Tournament and in the State Tournament," said Coach Highley.

The team tried to reach the common goal of competing in state by simulating game situations in practice and performing more consistently in close games.

Coach Highley also stated, "We need to be more selective on the pitches we're swinging at. Poor decisions are resulting in too many strike outs."

Even with a few more things to work out in order to have a successful second half, each member of the team was very optimistic.

"Our pitching was very good, and our defense performances were good to great," stated Coach Jerry Highley. With all of the practices and games focused on reaching a goal that was a common one between the members of the team, the goal of going to State Tournament, there was not a lot of room for error.

Every year the opponents got better and the Warren team had to overcome all of the obstacles that they encountered. One reason why they had a tougher season was they had a harder time scoring runs than in recent years.

Coach Highley also stated, "We have not won a tournament yet this year, but we hope to take care of that in the State Tournament."

With Kellianne Moore pitching one-or-no hitter games, combined with the rest of the teams experiences, this season was looking better each game they played.

"The team's attitude changed after we lost in County. We got to the semifinals and lost in eleven innings, and we realized that we had to got much more determined and serious for the State Tournament," stated Niki Adamson.

Adamson also stated, "The team worked very hard each practice and game, so we are all really excited about Sectionals."

The game-simulations continued as the season went on, and the teams' determination and excitement kept growing. They did not let any losses get them down either.

"You're always going to have your ups and downs, but we kept our heads held high after our losses and strived to get better," commented Adamson.

The team is already making plans on how to make the next season even better than the last. With the loss of six seniors, they are planning on working even harder next year to help them win the County Tournament.

"The biggest thing that will have to change is that we just need to hit the ball and run the bases better," said Coach Highely, "but over-all, things will be the same."

Shouts of laughter and cheering was a tradition the girls tennis team had to get fired up before meets. " The girls love huddling up before the meets," stated Coach Brooks, the girls' tennis team's head coach.

The girls' varsity team jumped into their season with a 5-0 win over Scecina, while defeats over Arlington and Ben Davis boosted their spirits also. "We seem to come together as a team easier than my last couple of seasons I have coached," stated Coach Brooks.

Starting a season with few experienced players may not sound great to some people. Many ladies on the tennis team thought the same way in the beginning.

"This season is quite different since we don't have any seniors, but we are doing fine. We have a lot of new players coming out and giving their all," exclaimed sophomore Emily Phillips, who was a returning teammate.

"With the rainy season behind us , I think our talent will come out and many schools will observe our improvements that have been made since the beginning of the season," pronounced Coach Brooks.

Mental Improvement was a major accomplishment of the second half of the girls' tennis team's season. "All of the girls have improved mentally. I am really proud of them all" remarked Coach Brooks. "They all support each other and played more as a team."

Junior Jessica Lascola and sophomore Angie Moon had a major impact this season. Their competitiveness developed dramatically, along with their strokes.

Practice was again, a key factor in the second half of the season. "With eight girls joining, I didn't expect to have a great season, but these girls were all hard working committed to the game," stated Brooks

The ladies tennis team had many tough competitors late in the season. Ranked teams such as Mt. Vernon and New Palestine were challenging meets. Lawrence North was a difficult opponent, for the girls who lost to them both in county and sectionals.

"Coach Brooks and Coach Haireston helped everyone a lot," proclaimed rookie Ana Larman. "They were really patient with us beginners and helped improve the more experienced players techniques also. They were great."

"If I had to discirbe our team's season I would say the ladies were very optimistic and I'm happy I have had the chance to get to know them all," said Brooks.

With an overall record of 53-17 and a strong team with depth, the varsity boys' golf team is heading into sectionals with their heads up. Despite a team with little experience and many new players, their season was very successful compared to last year's. This year, talent was widespread, with at least six players who shot well, including freshman Justin Wenger. Wenger had the highest scoring average and played on varsity. In county, the team placed third with a total score of 322. The team's 18-hole invitational record was 47-4 and dual matches record was 8-3.

In the MIC Conference, they played tough opponents, four of which were state-ranked. Before MIC, Varsity coach Al Darko stated, "We will get to see how big the bite is in the dog." They ended up placing third, with two individual players making all-conference, and the team breaking the course record with a score of 319. Three other teams also broke the course record' Carmel placed first and Terre Haute North placed second.

Next year, with some experience on their side, the varsity boy's golf team hopes to achieve even higher goals.

Varsity Profiles

Throughout the whole season, the boys' golf team had a few good players to carry them; however, in the second half of the season, this pool of good players expanded. While Matt Griggs and Justin Wenger continued to lead the team, both Justin Baily and Zack Boone moved up to make a large impact.

This growing pool of talent, along with increased confidence for the whole team, lead coach Darko to cautious optimism about the season, as well as about next year. He was happy with the improvement; however, he also felt that the team did not meet its full potential.

Also in the second half of the season, players became more aware of what they were capable of doing. Before each meet, coach Darko advised his players to, above all, play under control; he also talks to each player individually, to tell him his standings and remind the player of his expectations for the meet. "You don't want to say the same thing all the time," Darko commented. "I tell everyone something different to improve their game."

Goals for this year were modest. The team wanted to finish in the top six in MIC, and to rank in the top three teams overall; there were also personal aspirations by some team members to win sectionals. However, the team's most important goal this year was to play the best game of golf possible, to reach their full potential.

This year, the team didn't quite reach its full potential, but its members did increase confidence, consistency, and experience. With all but one member of the team returning next season, this year of rebuilding has set the whole team up for success in the future.

With eleven returning seniors, the Lady Warrior track team had the experience necessary for success. One of those senior contributors was Jerilyn Trotter. Leading the team in the 400 meter dash, Trotter guaranteed points for the Lady Warriors.

After all this senior skill there still were points provided from the underclassmen. Sophomore Ruthanne Clark showed her talent in the long and high jump areas. Freshman discus thrower, Tia Williams, demonstrates some of the field event talent showed during the season.

The team was ready for a season different from what they ever were accustomed to. Some of the goals that were put into effect early on were to improve daily, weekly, and over the course of the season.

Coach Matt Prusecki commented, "Each girl should establish individual goals to achieve. Then I uniform them into specific meet expectations. They should have fun and be proud to be a Warrior." Coach Prusecki continued, "One major goal that the Lady Warriors are pushing for is to repeat as freshman county champs, and have strong showings in the MIC conference and county tournaments."

SECTIONALS WON IN TEAM HISTORY

Never Ending Story

"Never a dull moment," was the first phrase that came into the mind of Coach Prusiecki to describe the outstanding season that the Lady Warriors had. The Freshmen won the Freshmen County Meet, the goal of the younger members, while the Lady Warriors placed third at the 30th Anniversary of the Warren Relays.

The Varsity goal was winning sectionals, and the Lady Warriors wouldn't stop until it was theirs; however, they had to compete in County, where the team placed third.

"Let's go out there and give the best performance that you can. Do your best and use this meet as practice for our real goal-sectionals,"said Coach Prusecki to motivate the girls for their County meet, and they did.

The Lady Warriors went out and claimed their sectional title, having no fear about whether they would win or not since they had strong contributions throughout the season. One was Asleigh Silas who proved to be one of the better 300m hurdlers in the area. As well, the 800m relay team broke the school record.

When asked what needed to be repeated for next season Coach Prusiecki commented, "The steady improvement of half of the team needs to be repeated by the whole team next year." he went on to say, "The attitude of the team fluctuates a lot. It's great at times while not so great at other times. Some of the girls have tremendous spirit and work ethic,while some still need to learn what it means to compete and be part of a team."

The great times were when members like junior Tosha Whitaker helped out injured teammates during the bigger meets. During the meet the girls' showed their pride by all wearing their hair in pigtails for unity.

In spite of all the individual dramas, the Lady Warriors were able to have one of the most successful seasons. At every meet, every girl went out and lived up to the team's motto,to just go out and "BEAT SOMEBODY".

With "The Show" in the back of everyone's mind, practices were intensified and the workouts lengthened. Training was at its peak. State was the beast at the end of the season, and the track team was prepared to take it on.

Ranked 14th in the state, Warren had once again taken the Anderson Relays trophy and was ready for its next opponent.

The track team had a slow start to the season with losses to Carmel and Ben Davis but rebounded from these with outstanding performances against Pike and Bloomington South.

"Our distance men and a strong core of seniors have really taken command of the team. They keep the team focused on their personal goals and on the end of the season," said Coach Dennis McNulty.

The next obstacle standing in the way was the MIC Conference meet. With six of the Indianapolis Star/News Top 20 in our conference, it proved to be a very intense meet. Warren ended up placing 5th out of the eight teams.

Senior leadership and extensive training were the qualities that led the team into the Warren Relays.

It all came down to the end of the season. Ranked 9th in the state, the Warren Central track team went into sectionals with a great attitude wanting to repeat their outstanding performance at the Warren Relays. Everyone was peaking in their performance at just the right time and Coach Dennis McNulty predicted an oustanding outcome.

The prediction came true. Warren competed with a huge amount of heart and ended up placing 2nd at sectionals, with 5 sectional champions.

"We had a great meet. Everyone came to compete and we ended up coming home very satisfied with a number of athletes going on to the regional," said Coach McNulty.

Regionals was next on the agenda. This was where everything came down to the wire. To go on to state, an athlete had to place in the top three of his event or perform better than the preset automatic qualifier. The pressure was on and Warren was ready.

Senior Morris Childs went over his steps with his coach for the long jump event. Junior Steve Parrish worked on his heigth and approach. Senior Adam Schildmeier repeatedly spun and drove the discus ring, working on form and speed. Everyone was ironing out the little mistakes and running through their steps again and again.

Regionals went well for the Warren track team. Four individuals and two relays qualified for state competition, with one regional champion in the 800 meter run, freshman Tyrone Green.

"Other than the years we've won state, we've never qualified more people for 'The Show' than this year," commented McNulty.

Warren performed with superstar ability. Everyone moved up in their rankings when their events were placed, and three events scored points for the team. Junior Steve Parrish cleared 6'6" and tied for fifth place. The 1600 meter relay and the 400 meter relay placed fifth and eighth respectively and logged both of their times on Warren's all-time top ten list.

A LOOK BACK . . . at clubs

AFTER ALL OF THE LONG HOURS, ALL OF THE DAYS WE STAYED AFTER SCHOOL, AND ALL OF THE WEEKENDS WE GAVE UP, IT WAS ALL WORTH IT IN THE END. WE HELPED OUT THOSE IN NEED, RAISED LARGE AMOUNTS OF MONEY, GOT THE PERFORMANCE PERFECT, AND SERVED LONG HOURS OF COMMUNITY SERVICE. WHEN IT WAS OVER WE WERE GLAD WE JOINED. WE WERE INVOLVED, AND WE WERE DEDICATED.

THE BIGGEST THE BEST

With the state's largest student council, WC takes on a leadership role in the high school community

by Elisa Stanfill

On October 16th , the Commons were full of students preparing for the Second Annual Student Council Lock-in. The biggest difference in this years lock-in was the addition of a new school. Warren adopted the Jennings County Student Council as part of an effort to become an honor council. The purpose was to help student council members from both schools become better leaders.

The night began with a tour of Warren given by junior Sean Wuethrich, then it was time to get down to business. Warren's student council officers led break-out sessions on topics such as: stress relief, community service, time management, goal setting, school spirit, leadership qualities, and how to run a meeting.

Beyond building skills, the lock-in was meant to build relationships. After the lock-in, and some sleep, members from both schools were off to Circle Centre, IMAX and other places.

Student Council officer, Jessica Clark, took her guests to the boys' soccer sectional at Beech Grove. When asked if they had kept in touch, Jessica replied, "We have written to each other a few times, and had a couple of phone conversations. It's hard because we're all so busy."

WHAT'S YOUR TAKE?

How do You Feel About The Student Council Lock-in?

"I enjoyed the whole weekend and I found it an honor that Jennings County wants to be at our level of excellence."

Jamie Donges, WCSC President

"This is a really neat experience, so we can learn how to do major projects, learn organization, andhow to work with our school."

Molly Jones, JCSC Vice-President

"Their students had great attitudes and were enthusiatic participants. This was a positive experience for both schools."

Beth Wolff, WCSC Advisor

"We are very excited, this is a great opportunity. We are glad to hook up with your Student Council."

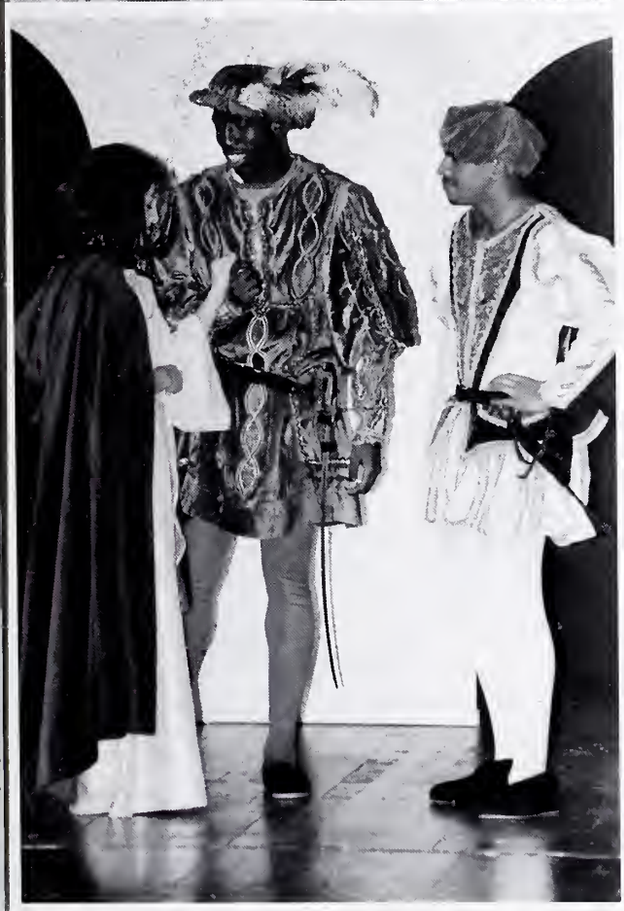
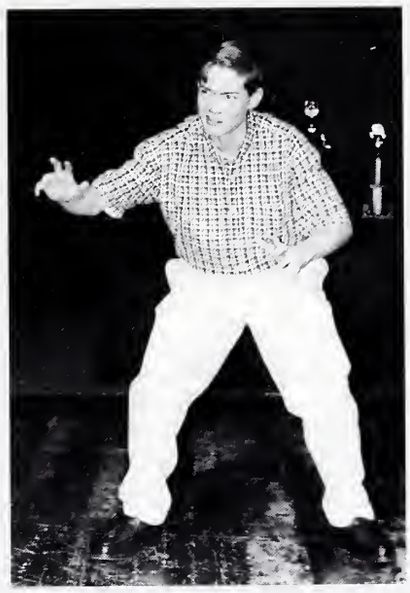
The cast of "Voices from the High School" poses for a picture before one of their four shows. It took 25 students five weeks of rehearsal to perfect this one-act play, performed in early October.

Rochelle Turner, Monte Tappler (left), and Oscar Banks take on the roles of Desdemona, Othello, and Iago in this year's fall play. With two shows in early November, Othello involved over 50 students and was performed for more than 500 people.



Speech & Debate

When the baseball team wins a game, it wins against one team. When your average speech team member wins first place at a meet, odds are that he has just edged out thirty others for the position.



"Speech is definitely much more mental than sports, but takes as much discipline as any sport," commented speech and debate coach Mr. Scott Black. Like many other academic organizations, speech and debate is usually considered a relatively tame hobby. However, Indiana is one of the most competitive speech and debate states; Warren's district ranks in the top 25 in the country

So how did our students measure up against such fierce competition? When a student participates in sectionals, he or she must place in the top seven to qualify for state level competition, usually coming up against at least 25 other students. This year, Tasha Basey, Bernita Prater, Monte Tappler, Rodney Pittman, Sean Snyder, Libby Jay, Jennie Gholdson, Tammy Klepinger, and Brad Hinshaw all qualified and continued on to state. Compared to last year, the team brought home triple the number of trophies and five times as many ribbons after their nine meets.

But the true advantage of participating in an organization like speech and debate goes far deeper than getting awards. Years from now, ribbons will be lost and trophies will be gathering dust, but no one will ever lose the memories they had or forget the friends they made. Communication skills learned in hours of after-school practice during high school will resurface again and again during college and beyond, and the self-confidence gained will remain in these students forever.

. . . and on, and on

For hundreds of Warren students, everyone's childhood dream of being a star has become reality. This year, the drama department upped their show count, performing Voices from the High School, Othello, Oklahoma, A Woman Called Truth, and Love, Death, & the Prom; these five, along with over thirty performances by Readers' Theatre, gave nearly 300 actors-in-training a chance to break into the business. Even those who weren't planning a career in show business gained a lot this year; performing gave students confidence in themselves. What started out as courage to practice a scene for a drama class evolved to love for performing in front of a sold-out PAC and overflowed into willingness to speak up and participate in class. Whether it was a fun hobby, a foundation for a career, or a route to more self-confidence and openness, the drama department played an important role in many lives around Warren this year.

Mr. Scott Black and members of his drama II class take a break from preparing for their finals, one-act plays to be performed by the students. Over 70 students took either beginning or advanced drama this year.

To the audience, the actors may seem like the most important part of a production, but without the behind-the-scenes work of the stage crew, there wouldn't be a show at all. Here, a stage crew member works on the set for a show.

"WE ENTERTAIN THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE A YEAR, AND THAT'S A GREAT FEELING. BUT HELPING A STUDENT HAVE HIGHER SELF-ESTEEM AND MORE SELF-CONFIDENCE CAN BE LIFE-CHANGING FOR THAT STUDENT. THAT'S HOW TEACHERS CHANGE THE WORLD--ONE PERSON AT A TIME. THAT'S WHAT MAKES THE 60+ HOUR WEEKS WORTH IT."

Some clubs at Warren require more time and dedication than others. The groups spotlighted on the next two pages are some of them. The students in these groups practice during and outside of the school day, many have to give up evenings and weekends to make their group work, they spend time, money, and endless amounts of energy. This dedication has paid off.

Sophomore Drum Major, Hope VanTreese plays her solo during the half-time show at "The Big Dome Game" against Carmel. This is an example of when time, commitment, and dedication pays off in after-school activities.

DEDICATION

Jenny Zigler

"Marching Band requires not only dedication, but self-disicpline. The countless number of hours spent involved with our program made up some of the most memorable moments of my years at Warren." Ryan Fitzgerald, 12

Senior Andy St. Laurent does double duty during a Warren Central football game. Marching band requires extreme dedication from its students to perform well.

Gold Brigade

8 Marching Band performances this year

15 hours of practice a week

1 of the best seasons for the "Gold Brigade" in over a decade

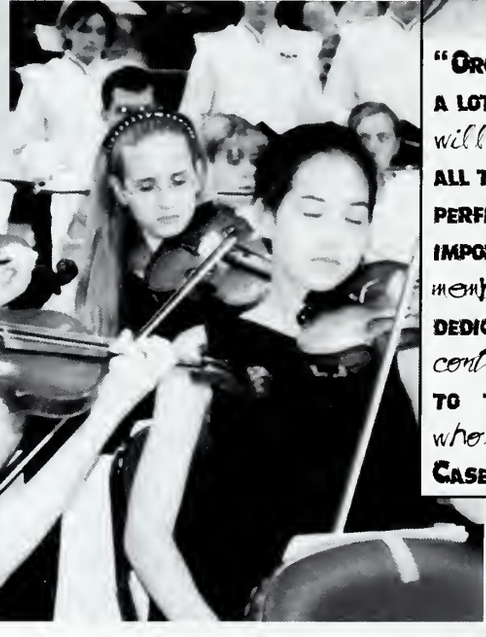
Symphony Orchestra

5 hours of practice per week

10 orchestra performances this year

4 students chosen to perform with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra: Casey Goodman, Jessica Lascola, Amy Reasoner and Jeff Grays

Jenny Zigler



"Orchestra requires a lot of dedication and willingness to attend all the rehearsals and perfect the music. It's important that every member is just as dedicated because each contributes greatly to the group as a whole."
Casey Goodman, 11

Connection

Jenny Zigler

10 hours of practice per week

18 show choir performances this year

1st time Connection made finals and was awarded Grand Champion Solo (Vince Anlin)

"Connection requires full dedication. You must be at every practice, and give your full attention, or you will hurt the rest of the group when you go to contest. It's worth it in the long run!"
Chris Deering, 12

Winter Guard

Jenny Zigler

13 the highest finish ever for Winter Guard at Regionals

14 hours of practice a week

7 guard performances this year

Color Guard members gather near the band room to practice for an upcoming performance. Color Guard members devote a period, everyday to practice.

"Winter Guard is a very time consuming activity. To be in guard you must be willing to give a majority of your normal life. You can't complain about pain or the weather. Color Guard is a sport."
Monica Howard, 12

Jazz is back!!!

• by Elisa Stanfill

"... this year there has been a notable resurgance of jazz-related activities at Warren."

Jenny Zigler

Warren's Jazz Band performed Saturday, May 15 in the Commons. The Jazz Band practices after school throughout the year to prepare for their annual concert.

Jazz's comeback, through the enormous popularity of swing and traditional jazz music this year, was felt all over the nation, if not the world. Swing made its presence felt on the radio, on TV and at dances.

The sudden increase of jazz's popularity with today's generation was felt at Warren, too. Various clubs held jazz-centered or jazz related events. Among these were the annual Jazz Night in May sponsored by Warren's Jazz Band, and two rookies: a Jazz/Poetry Night sponsored by Serteen, and the Black and White Ball which was preceded by performances from several jazz artists in the area, notably Cathy Morris.

Senior Ryan Fitzgerald sums up the feeling of satisfaction that jazz is back and hopefully here to stay. "It's definitely great that jazz is on its way back. Swing is making a huge comeback. It's great to finally hear jazz getting airtime and knowing that there is still a place for jazz in this world."

"Jazz is the ultimate form of musical expression. There are no restrictions to what you play or how you play it. It helps me relax and express my feelings through my music." Ryan Fitzgerald, 12

• Jazz night '99

Warren's Jazz Band sponsored a night of jazz experimentation and appreciation. The jazz band, along with choir members, performed "Sing, Sing, Sing," "In the Mood," "Tuxedo Junction" and others.

• Senteen's Jazz/Poetry Night

For the finale of their annual food and clothing drive, the club sponsored a showcase of student poetry with jazz music to set the mood. The entrance fee was a food or clothing donation for local food pantries.

• Black and White Ball

This brand new dance addition, began with a night of jazz entertainment. Students were encouraged to bring their parents to the first half of the night.

A LOOK BACK . . . at people.

THEY WERE YOUR FRIENDS, YOUR ENEMIES, YOUR "SIGNIFICANT OTHERS," YOUR TEACHERS, AND YOUR LUNCH LADIES. PEOPLE, JUST LIKE YOU, BUT ALL DIFFERENT IN THEIR OWN WAYS. DIFFERENT LOOKS, DIFFERENT IDEAS, DIFFERENT DREAMS AND GOALS. AND REALLY, WHAT IS A YEARBOOK ABOUT, IF NOT THE PEOPLE? YOU GAVE THE SCHOOL PERSONALITY, YOU MADE IT WHAT IT WAS . . . YOU WERE WARREN CENTRAL.

Senior class officers Vince Amlin, Scott Shelbourne, Bobby Dinn, Megan Hauser, Rodney Pittman, John Sponsel, and LaToya White pose for a picture outside of the senior class office where many of the class activities were planned. The officers sponsored activities such as girls flag football, "1999 Farwell Finales," and raising money for the Leukemia Society.

Senior Andrea Wilson lines up against the side of the rink with the rest of the senior class during the hokey-pokey at the roller cave. This year was the first year seniors went skating during senior week.

Senior David Young takes the stand to testify as William Casey, CIA Director in the IR trial. Along with David, seniors Vince Amlin, Nick Fleck, Ricki Williams, Rodney Pittman, Heather Daily, Megan Hauser, Kitwan Hill, Brooke Wilkinson, Kyle Winnings, Natasha Basey, Scott Farley, Jon Baird, Jamie Donges, Rachelle Turner, Vicki Oliver, Marcus Hawkins, and Brian Washburn took an active part in the IR trial.

During the winterfest pep rally, senior brothers Chad and Jon Smothers cheer for their class while wearing the traditional '99 on their shirts. The seniors won the "scream contest" and the penny wars which took place throughout the week.

CLASS OF 1999 Rachel Ressler

Rachel Anne,

You've always been so INDEPENDENT, always doing things your way. You're CURIOUS, with an interest in your world. You've followed your sister through SCHOOL but now as you are on the brink of a NEW adventure, you are following no one! You've chosen your PATH and are prepared to step out on it. We BELIEVE in you and will ALWAYS be here for you.
We love you FOREVER.

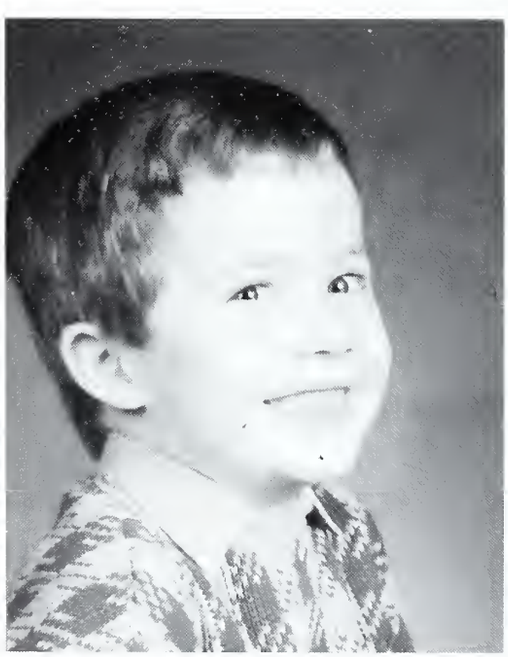
Love,
Mom, Dad, and Heather

CLASS OF 1999 Darren Transue



Darren,

You have grown into a FINE young man. Good LUCK at IU. I'm very PROUD of you and I hope all of your DREAMS come true!

Love,
Mum

CLASS OF 1999

Katie Spilker

Dear Katie,

Your ACCOMPLISHMENTS are many but we are prouder of your attitude and CHARACTER.

God bless you as you follow your DREAM to be a veterinarian.

Thanks to all the Warren Township teachers, administrators and coaches who have helped in your DEVELOPMENT and achievements from Kindergarten though graduation.

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Mamma

CLASS OF 1999

Chris-

Good luck in COLLEGE. We know you will do great things! We're so PROUD of the man you have become.

Love,
Mom & Dad,
Sarah, Meganne,
and Kyle

Chris Shickles

CLASS OF 1999

Kristy,

We always knew you would do well in ANYTHING you chose to do. Keep it up and there's no telling what you'll ACCOMPLISH! We're proud of you and love you VERY much.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Kristy Reinhardt

CLASS OF 1999

Karen,

We are VERY proud of your accomplishments. We BELIEVE in you. Keep your DREAMS alive!

Love,
Dad, Mom,
and Teresa

Karen Hromada

CLASS OF 1999

To our Little Girl,

We have watched you GROW through the years. You have made us so PROUD you have filled our lives with joy. ALWAYS reach for the stars! Good luck at BALL STATE!

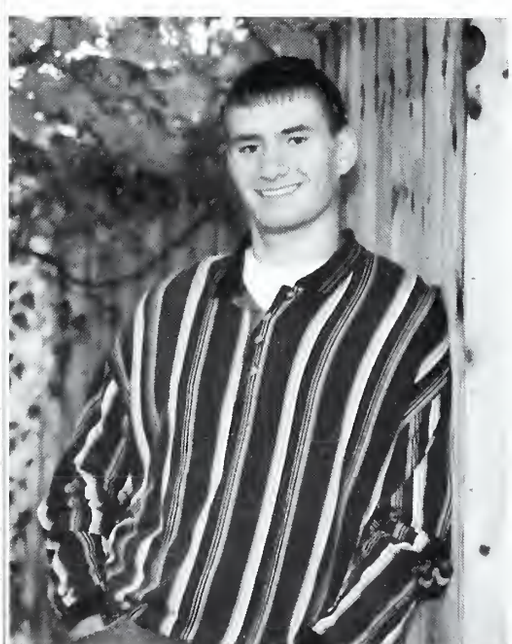
Love,
Mom, Dad, Sean & Jon

Laura Dugan

CLASS OF 1999

Chris Benell



CONGRATULATIONS Chris on your many academic and athletic ACCOMPLISHMENTS. Your dedication and hard work to Warren Central has been a very REWARDING experience for you. Good luck with all your future plans. Your family is very PROUD of you!

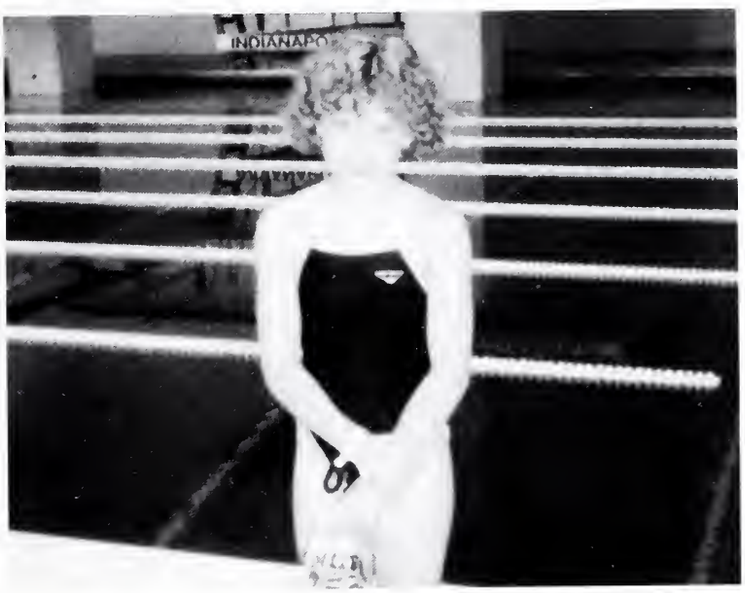
Love,
Dad, Mom & Matt

Katy Hicks

"It's a Small World"

Words and Music by Richard and Robert Sherman

"It's a world of laughter"



"It's a world of hopes and a world of fears"

"And a smile means friendship to everyone"

CLASS OF 1999

Katy,

Always remember how BIG your new worlds are going to seem. Put your TRUST in God and ask Him for help. He will bless you and keep you safe-even in a big world that's SMALL after all.

Love,
Mom & Dad

CLASS OF 1999

David Young

David,
You have given us many HAPPY days. You have been a joy to have for a son, and we're PROUD of the individual you've become. May all of your DREAMS come true.

Love always,
Mom and Dad

CLASS OF 1999

Ashley Holden

To be who you are is to be enough.
To share who you are is to share enough.
To do what you love is to do enough.

We've CHERISHED every moment from soccer games to dance recitals, softball games to tennis matches. From marching band contests to HONORS band concerts and gymnastics throughout it all. You are one of our GREATEST accomplishments Ashley. Thanks for sharing all that you LOVED with us.

Love,
Mom & Dad

CLASS OF 1999

Dan,
We've watched you grow from white belt to BLACK belt, Cub to Eagle, passenger to driver, boy to MAN. We are so very proud of you and wish you continued success, ESPECIALLY at I.U. Remember how very much we LOVE you.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Daniel Jones

CLASS OF 1999

Lori,
The years have SLIPPED by all too quickly as you grew from our "baby girl" into such a SPECIAL young woman. As you proceed through the journey of life, make the most of the many strengths and talents with which you have been BLESSED. Know that our love and best wishes go with you. We hope for you joy and SUCCESS in all that you do.

With Love & Congrats,
Mom, Dad, Steve, Scott, Shannon, and Triston

Lori McDaniel

CLASS OF 1999

Mandi,
As our FIRST, everything you have done has been a WONDERFUL learning experience. Sometimes frustrating, sometimes invigorating, but always first. You have made us PROUD with everything that you have done in life; it has been a joy to watch you mature. As you move to the NEXT phase of your life there is still much to learn. We love you and THANK you for being a wonderful daughter and teacher.

Love,
Dad & Mom

Mandi Lewis

Sara Longs

CLASS OF 1999

Sara,

We are so PROUD of you. You probably don't remember this; but when you were 2 years old, the pediatrician asked how many words you could say. Our only answer was that we didn't know how many words, because at the age of 2 you were speaking COMPLETE sentences! You have always been outspoken but in a positive way. You have also grown into a lovely YOUNG woman. We are VERY proud of your accomplishments while in Warren Township schools. Good luck with your career ASPIRATIONS at Purdue.

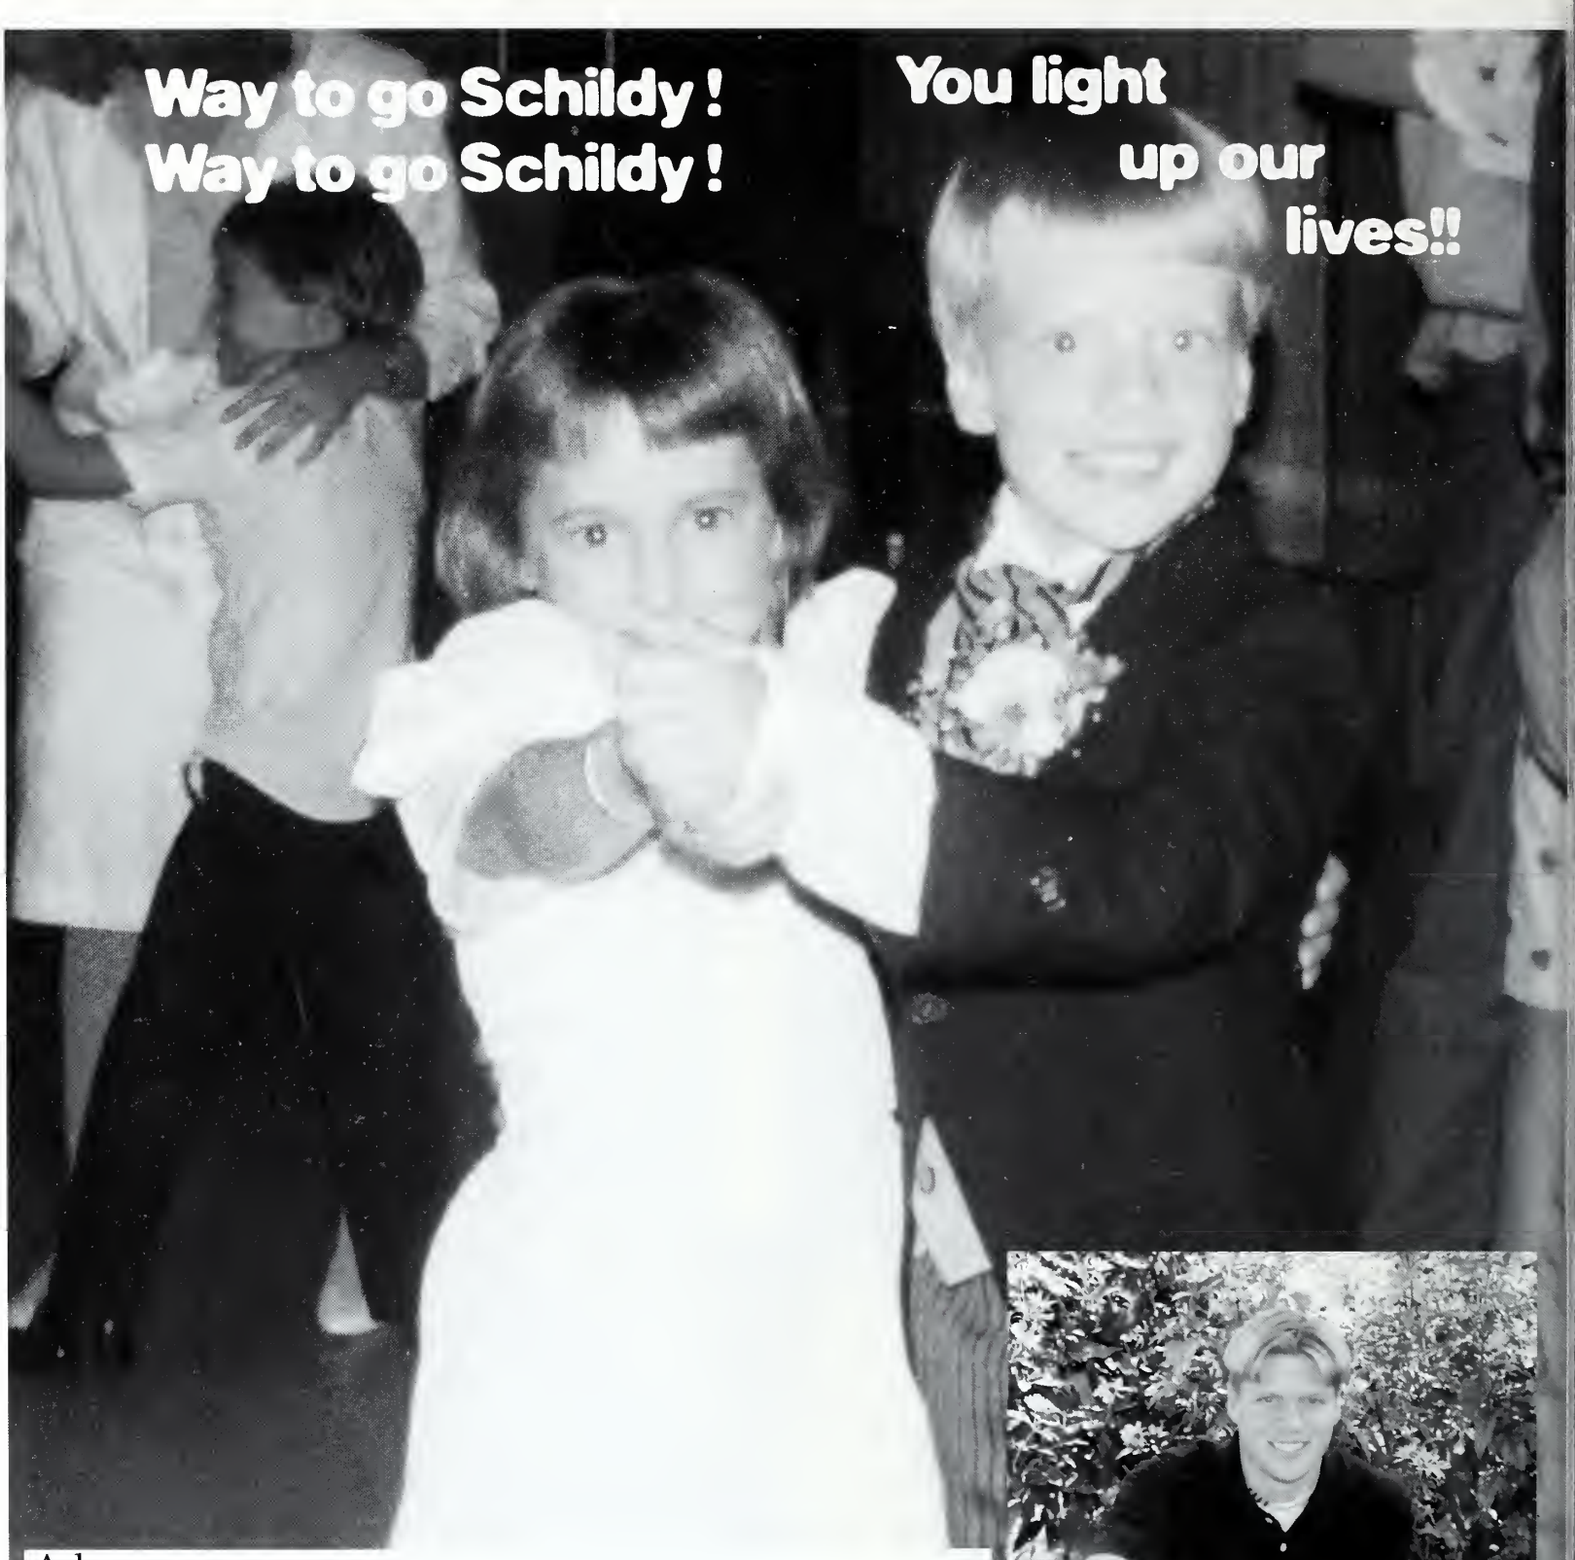
Love,
Mom & Dad

Andy St. Laurent

CLASS OF 1999

Andy,
CONGRATULATIONS son! Your mother and I are very proud of you, and of all your accomplishments. We know that you will be SUCCESSFUL in life, because of your desire to succeed. We will always have and hold on to the fond MEMORIES of watching you grow up, playing little league sports, all the way to the varsity level. It has been a great pleasure watching you grow up into the fine young man that you've become. Now as you enter the next level of LIFE, may God richly bless and keep you safe in all that you do.

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Brittany



Adam,

You danced into our hearts bringing every JOY a parent can imagine. That gift of laughter and enthusiasm will continue to BRIGHTEN this world and the lives of others. What a high school record of achievements! Way to go! We are so proud. As you walk this PATHWAY of life remember BLESSED is the man who walks in the counsel of God.

All our love,
Mom & Dad

CLASS OF 1999

Warren Orchestra members accept the challeng of performing the same great music played b professional ensembles such as the Indianapolis Symphon Orchestra. Music composed by Bach, Mozart, Mendelssoh Mussorgsky, and many others, was performed by studen this year.

Highlights of the year included the Symphon Orchestra's invitation from Butler Universit to perform in Clowes Hall for the Honore High School Orchestra's Concert o January 31 and the performance of both orchestras with the Indianapolis Jazz Orchestra for a pops concert in February.

Warren Central Orchestras have a history of more than seventy years of excellence. This long-standing "Tradition of Excellence" was certainly enhanced during the 1998-99 school year!

Congratulations Congratulations Congratulations Congratulations

The Children's Christmas Spectacular was held on December 5. "We were thrilled that both shows that day were sold out, marking the first time in the 15-year history of the Performing Arts Center that any show sold out two performances in one day."

Every Readers' Theatre student performed on the Main Stage for over 2,000 people. The advanced students, veterans, were showcased in the second act, "Mrs. Santa's Chubby Hubby", through specialty acts.

The audiences were enthusiastic and very appreciative of all of our hard work. Each class also performed the entire first act at township elementary schools for over 10,000 elementary students.

no idea when or why Jordache jeans were cool

always had remotes

always paid around $.32 for a stamp

only seen Jay Leno host The Tonight Show

ALWAYS HAD WALKMANS

never seen Larry Bird play live

NO CLUE WHAT A PULL-TOP CAN LOOKS LIKE

ALWAYS KNOWN WHAT AIDS WAS always had cable, MTV and color TV

never had a Polio shot always listened to Cds (1981) ALWAYS COOKED POPCORN IN A MICROWAVE

NEVER FEARED A NUCLEAR WAR NEVER EATEN McDONALD'S FROM STYROFOAM CONTAINERS

Top right: As the last bell of the year rings, freshman Chad Hankins gets a quick start on his celebration. Due to snow days caused by "Winter Blast '99," the underclassmen had to wait an extra five days for their summer freedom.

Bottom left: With the tassel ceremony over and graduation official, seniors celebrate at MSA with cheers and silly string.

Bottom right: While most fans shiver in their coats and mittens, warmth is no object for these students. It was school spirit like this that helped the warriors on to their homecoming victory.

That's all we've got for you. But, you may be saying, that wasn't my year. Well, of course not. That was our year. Everyone will look back on this year in a different way. This book has been a collective attempt by a diverse staff to give you a starting point, a foundation from which to build your own unique memories. So flip through the pages in a few years, and you might be surprised at what comes flooding back. We are often told not to dwell in the past; don't dwell, but visit often. Remember fondly our triumphant homecoming against Terre Haute South, the joy you felt when you saw Warren Central on the list of closed schools (for the fifth time), or your anxiety as you watched the Pacers sweep the 76ers, knowing that if they didn't make that last basket, graduation would be on Thursday instead. Also remember your failed test, your bout with the flu, or your sloppy breakup; veiled over with the kind haze of time they won't seem so bad, and you might even learn something. All that said, there's nothing left to do but say good-bye. One day when you think back to Warren, you'll grab a box of tissues, or maybe just a bag of chips and the remote, turn back to page one, and start your stroll down that infamous memory lane.

the end.

800 copies of the 62nd volume of the yearbook were printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks at the cost to students of $40 each. Mrs. Cathy Wolfe served as the Herff Jones representative, and Lori Daniels was the in-plant consultant. Mrs. Alison Baldwin was the yearbook advisor, Mr. Mark Haab was the Publications Director, and Mr. Tony Burchett was the principal. The book was printed on 100 lb. bordeaux paper. All photos were taken and developed in Warren Central's darkroom by the staff photographers, or taken and developed by Prestige Portraits. All page layouts were created on Pagemaker 6.5 software.

This year has gone better than I ever expected it would. We were an interesting mix of experience and new talent; our seniors led the way, while the sophomores and juniors brought new ideas and styles to the staff.

We spent days on end brainstorming for ideas on what to do with this book. The thesaurus gave us some interesting words to play with, and theme ideas like "How the Wigwam got its Groove Back" were vetoed. But when we finally got serious, we realized that, as this millennium comes to a close, we should look back at all that it has meant to us, both in school and out. We focused on how this year was unique, but at the same time, we looked back at everything that has led us here; we wanted to give the students a true retrospective of life at Warren from August of 1998 to May of 1999. We hope we have succeeded.

To the staff: I cannot thank you enough for all that you have done this year. Producing a yearbook is never easy, but it should always be fun. Hopefully, you have made it through all the grueling work, picky revisions, and screeches from the office with a few good memories yourself. We always complain that, being on staff, we never get to be in the yearbook; however, I've come to realize that this staff makes its own memories, and they are more than enough to make up for a few missed picture opportunities in the student life section any day. You all saw me cry like a baby at the end of our last journalism class, and I meant it. I will miss "the J. room" and all of its inhabitants more than anything else I have encountered here at Warren. Thank you again.

I would also like to thank our advisor, Mrs. Baldwin, and the newspaper advisor, Mr. Haab. You two were my sole source of off-campus lunches, and the only teachers I know who would let their students buy a couch for the classroom. Seriously though, I know everyone would join me in thanking Mr. Haab for his vast computer knowledge and endless help to a staff that wasn't even his. And as for Mrs. Baldwin...well, what can I say? You have yelled at me louder than anybody I know, but you have also taught me more. Thank you for giving us so much of your time and of yourself, and for believing in me and making me work even when I didn't want to. I will never forget you, and I will come back to bug you whenever I get the chance - you will always get my vote for teacher of the year. I will miss you.

Editor-in-Chief,

Vicki Oliver
